OKLAHOMA LEADING IN OIL PRODUCTION MONTH OF MARCH

TEXAS IS FORCED TO SURRENDER FIRST PLACE TO NEIGHBOR.

DAILY AVERAGE 385,774 TEXAS AVERAGE 352,419

Total Production For United States Increases 6,102,000 Barrels.

WASHINGTON April 21—Texas was forced to surrender first place in oil production during the month of March to Oklahoma the petroleum output of which state showed a gain of nearly 2,000,000 barrels This is revealed in a report of the United States geological survey announced today

Production in Oklahoma for March was 11,959,000 barrels against 10,625,000 barrels in February while the production in Texas during March was 10,925,000 barrels compared to 10,457,000 barrels in February The daily average production in Oklahoma during March was 385,774 barrels while in Texas it was 352,419 barrels The production in Texas was distributed 8,222,000 barrels from the central and northern fields and 2,703,000 from the coastal fields The chief gain in Texas was in the central and northern fields the yields from that section for February having been 7,[illegible]

California was third state with a production of 10,298,000, Louisiana fourth with 4,166,000 barrels while Kansas was fifth with 2,844,000

The total production in the United States for the month was 46,916,000 compared with 40,814,000 during February Daily average production for the month was 1,513,419 During March a year ago, total production was 40,905,000

Imports for the month also showed a gain jumping from 11,418,548 barrels to 13,206,317 Consumption also showed a gain of nearly 100,000 barrels daily average The report points out that the disparity between supply and demand resulted in an increase during the month of pipe line and tank farm supplies of Mexican petroleum which on the last of March totaled 220,133,000 the equivalent of 140 days' supply at the present consumption rate

Production during the first quarter of this year amounted to 164,641,000 more barrels than the corresponding period in 1921 and thus gives an annual rate of more than 520,000,000 barrels

SECRETARY WEEKS URGES AN ARMY OF MORE THAN 115,000

DECLARES THE MINIMUM PROPOSED WOULD BE SERIOUS HANDICAP.

ALL BRANCHES OF THE ARMY WOULD SUFFER

Fails to Make Any Provision For Healthy Growth of the National Guard.

WASHINGTON April 25—The 115,000 enlisted strength army bill passed by the house provides a military structure below the safe minimum requirements of the nation, Secretary Weeks told the senate appropriations committee in urging that appropriations for the next fiscal year permit a force of 13,000 officers and 150,000 men to be maintained in the regular army Should the house proposals prevail, he added not only would the regulars suffer but overseas garrisons would be inadequate, and the development of citizens components of our national defense system would be seriously checked

I am aware of no issue that at present threatens to involve international complications Mr Weeks said There is no evidence of general designs against us We must however recognize that through the greater part of the world that an instability prevails which threatens the permanence of world peace

It is certain that to remain weak and unprepared in the face of such a situation is to invite aggression It is moreover essential not only that we maintain a reasonable state of preparedness but that it should be a matter of international knowledge that we are so prepared'

The army needs stability more than anything else Mr Weeks said recounting the double cut in the strength of the force made last year and the consequent reorganizing required

Mr Weeks said the house bill made 'inadequate provision for the healthy growth of the national guard and for its proper field training

As to the organized reserves he pointed out that it was sought in peace times only to create the officer framework and the annual training of the reserve officers on whom the war time machinery would depend The war department had asked only funds to train 20,000 of the 65,000 reserve officers during the coming year as no adequate provision for keeping up their training since the war had been made he said

Mr Weeks said he had been much impressed with the testimony already before the committee as to the 'physical moral and educational value of military training,' statements by governors educators and others on the points 'had been most impressive' he said and in his opinion these collateral non-military benefits alone justified the depaerments training plans and the expense they involved

The army service school system was of vital importance in any national preparedness plan the secretary declared

As to the army's gas warfare work Mr Weeks said that while abolishment of such warfare might come by international agreement, it was up to the United States to keep up experiments which we are now conducting until such abolishment is absolutely certain

'I do not hesitate to predict that in any future war its importance will be greatly increased he added

There is no doubt' the chief of the staff continued, 'but that the civil war might have been prevented had the country been equipped with an army of reasonable size for immediate use A measure of preparedness such as contemplated under the law of 1920, would probably have kept us out of the world war At least it would have saved us the humiliation of depending upon the allies to hold the enemy for more than a year before we were even partially prepared

'As a matter of fact with adequate military preparedness there can be little question the United States under strong leadership could have prevented the world war altogether

General Pershing advocated a 'regular army in keeping with our position among the nations' and declared that a regular establishment of 150,000 men and 13,000 officers was barely of sufficient strength' to meet minor emergencies garrison overseas possessions and provide a minimum of instruction for citizen forces'

PREPAREDNESS WOULD HAVE PREVENTED A WAR

WASHINGTON April 25—The United States with adequate military preparations and under strong leadership could have prevented occurrence of the world war General Pershing declared today in testifying before the senate military committee in behalf of the war department's plea for an increase in the military establishment over that proposed by the house

Failure to recognize the existence of envy jealousy and hatred among nations as among individuals he said has invariably sent the United States into a great crisis and caused unnecessary loss of life and left us staggering under financial burdens.'

Endowment Policy May Be Feature of Senate Bonus Bill

WASHINGTON April 25—Informal conferences on soldier bonus legislation between senate finance committee republicans and officers of veterans organization were closed today and Chairman McCumber said it was the plan to go ahead with the working out of details of the measure When that has been done the matter will be taken up with President Harding

Spokesmen for the veterans are reported to have exhibited satisfaction with the proposal to substitute a 20 year endowment insurance policy for the adjusted service certificate feature of the house bill with a modification that would make borrowing from banks possible They also were said by some committee members to have offered no objection to the elimination of the land settlement option

NOT PROBABLE ANY MUSCLE SHOALS BID WILL BE APPROVED

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 25—Consideration by the house military committee in executive session of the various private offers for the government projects at Muscle Shoals Ala, has reached the stage it was said today on good authority where it appears probable that none of the offers will be recommended to the house in their present form for acceptance

WASHINGTON April 25—Investigation by the senate agricultural committee of private proposals for the development of the government's projects at Muscle Shoals Ala was postponed today until Monday by Senator Norris of Nebraska chairman of the committee The committee had prepared to begin examination today of the offer made by Henry Ford when word was received from his representatives that they were not prepared to appear and asking that they be excused until next Monday

SAFE BLOWERS ROB SOUTH BEND DEPOT GET $200 IN CASH

The safe in the station of the Wichita Falls & Southern at South Bend was blown by yeggmen some time Monday night and $200 in currency and silver and about $1,200 in checks was taken.

The job was evidently done by men who knew their business, according to reports to the general offices here Tuesday, as the explosion did not rouse anyone in the town, and the force was just sufficient to blow the door off. Nitroglycerin was used. The robbery was not discovered until the agent came down early Tuesday morning.

Several weeks ago the station agent was held up and robbed by a masked bandit, while at work in the station, so that this is the second recent visitation of lawlessness upon the railroad at that place.

This is the first report of safe blowing anywhere in northwest Texas in some time.

PAGE IS AWARDED ATKINS OIL LEASE IN CREEK COUNTY

OKLAHOMA CITY April 25—Possession of the celebrated Tommy Atkins oil lease in Creek county was today awarded by the state supreme court to Charles Page of Sand Springs near Tulsa The lease had been contested by Sally Atkins Creek Indian woman who obtained judgment of $1,960,000 against Page in district court at Sapulpa on March 31, 1921 Page appealed the case to the supreme court, which today reversed the decision of the lower court and remanded the case with instructions that judgment be entered for Page

The case involved several million dollars and has been in the courts for several years

In her action against Page Sally Atkins alleged that she was the mother of Thomas (Tommy) Atkins who was enrolled as a Creek Indian in 1901 and that she had inherited the land from him upon his death

Page in his answer, charged that Tommy Atkins had died in 1899 and that it would have been impossible for him to be listed on the Creek roll He also pleaded a judgment in the United States district court for eastern Oklahoma which held that Tommy was the son of Minnie Atkins instead of Sally Page set out in his answer that he had held the land since acquiring it in 1914 in good faith that he paid $20,000 for a claim set up for it by the Gypsy oil company and that he had spent $566,507.59 in operating the lease

The Indian woman claimed that Page had extracted from the lease oil valued at $2,500,000 and she asked not only the land but damages based on this alleged wealth claimed from its operation

Raid That Resulted In Killing Arranged In Meeting of Klan

LOS ANGELES, April 25—The night raiders raid resulting in the killing of Constable M B Mosher Saturday was arranged in a meeting Friday in which Blake Shambeau traffic officer of Inglewood, was initiated into the Ku Klux Klan Shambeau testified at the inquest here today in the death of Constable Mosher

LOS ANGELES April 25—More than an inquest was expected to be held today over the body of A M Mosher the constable who was killed early Sunday morning when a large band of masked and armed men of which he was a member, raided the home of Mathias and Fidel Elduayen at Inglewood, a suburb

W O Dorran chief deputy district attorney, declared that he purposed to try to learn who composed the raiding band and who and what inspired them

Mr Dorran said there was no doubt that Frank Woerner night marshal of Inglewood who responded to call of neighbors of the Elduayens was thoroughly justified in firing the shots which killed Mosher and wounded his son Walter E Mosher and Leonard Rusing a deputy sheriff the latter seriously

Witnesses subpoenaed for the inquest include William S Colburn and W G Price respectively grand goblin and king kleagle, Pacific domain, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

GENOA CONFERENCE AGAIN NEARS ROCKS OVER RUSSIAN NOTE

SPEECH OF POINCARE AT BAR LE DUC CAUSES A SENSATION

FRENCH DELEGATES HAVE RECEIVED INSTRUCTIONS

Will Insist On Terms Outlined By Premier In Discussing Question.

By Associated Press

LONDON April 25—Richard Washburn Child American ambassador to Italy has informed the Genoa conference that the United States reserves all its rights on the repayment of war debts from Russia says a dispatch to the Evening Standard from Genoa this evening

These debts include private bankers loans and advances to the Kerinsky government

By Associated Press

LONDON, April 25.—There is reliable information, declares a Central News dispatch, that M Barthou, the French delegate, received telegraphic instructions today to insist at the conference upon the terms contained in Premier Poincare's speech of Monday.

The French delegation, says the message, has declared it will press for a 48 hour ultimatum to Russia or else break from the conference altogether.

Premier Poincare's speech created great consternation in conference circles, it is added.

By Associated Press

GENOA, April 25.—Russia further complicated the Genoa conference turmoil of war tonight by sending Poland a note announcing that Russia considers that Poland violated both its peace treaty with Russia signed at Riga March 18, 1921, and its Baltic entente agreement signed at Riga March 30, 1922, by participating in negotiations in Genoa questioning Russia's right to negotiate treaties with Germany

By Associated Press

GENOA April 25—The Genoa conference is drifting toward the rocks again Whether it can be kept from wrecking depends upon the possibility of adjusting the new demands of the Russian soviet delegates with the position of the allied governments who declare they will steadfastly stand by the Russian resolution adopted at Cannes on which the conference is founded

The situation is made more serious by the French premiers warning at Bar le Duc yesterday that France will withdraw from the conference if she is unable to see that the ideas expressed by the French cabinet before parliament triumphs

The French demands include maintenance of the war clauses and no changing of existing treaties at Genoa In addition France insists on rigid adherence to the Cannes resolutions which call for the payment of Russia's pre war debts and the restitution by the soviet of foreigners property in Russia

Yesterday the bolshevik announced their declination to restore private property because everything was nationalized in Russia but in their note of acceptance they voiced willingness to restore such property or indemnify the owners provided the country's war debts to the allies were cut down and financial help for Russia forthcoming

Different Proposition

Instead of accepting the allies demands for the payment of war debts with the understanding that these debts should wait the back interests be remitted in part, the bolshevik had an entirely different proposition They asked the complete annulment of all war debts

Whereas they had previously agreed to the payment of the financial obligations due to foreign nationals which are usually referred to as the pre-war debts the soviet spokesmen asked for a moratorium of 30 years on the debts and the cancellation of the interest according to the allied version of the meeting This cancellation was to apply both to the past and to the period of moratorium

Finally the Russians made clear that in refusing to restore private property in Russia this would not imply any surrender by Russian citizens of their rights to hold property in fee simple in foreign lands, where the right to possess property went to the bourgeoise system

Such said the Russians were their terms that they could only grant them on condition that the power represented at Genoa would first agree to recognize the soviet government and accord it financial help for its proper economic reconstruction

Must Be Referred

'Under the conditions' said Sir Laming Worthington-Evans chairman of the meeting 'we cannot discuss the question any further We refer this matter to our respective governments It was then decided to adjourn the meeting sine die All the experts except the Russian arranged to meet today and go over the entire situation.

"DO NOT TRUST GERMANY AND RUSSIA," WARNS D. R. FRANCIS

By DAVID R FRANCIS.

America's last ambassador to Russia former chief of United States mission which recognized republic of Russia, also former mayor of St Louis governor of Missouri and secretary of the interior

ST LOUIS April 26—The signing of a treaty between Germany and Russia was no surprise to me

My book 'Russia From the American Embassy' shows that Lenin was a German agent and was sent to Russia for the purpose of demoralizing the Russian army and withdrawing Russia from the world war

Many times while ambassador I recommended that the bolshevik soviet government be deposed because it was an ally of the central empires with which the entente was at war

Furthermore I predicted that if Germany got control of Russia she would organize Russia's man power and utilize Russia's immense resources to begin another war within ten years

I would not trust Germany or the bolshevik soviet government as I feel that they would not respect their agreements if it was to their interest to violate them

I am glad the American government is not participating in the Genoa conference Not that I am opposed to the United States aiding in reconstructing Europe economically and financially.

But I think it would be a mistake for the United States to recognize even as a de facto government the Russian bolshevik regime or do anything to strengthen that government—beside which the horrors of the French revolution compared with bolshevik excesses pale into moderation

LADY ASTOR SPEAKS TO MEMBERS PRESS IN NEW YORK CITY

ADDRESSES ANNUAL MEETING THE ASSOCIATED PRESS MONDAY.

PRAISES THE AMERICAN FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

Says It Is For the Press to Unite Countries For Trade and Spirit and Peace.

NEW YORK, April 25—Lady Astor, in the speech which she prepared today for the meeting of the members of the Associated Press, defined as the part of great price which she is striving to place in public life by entering politics, "what any man gets from his mother and most men get from their wives if they choose wisely," unselfishness, vision, courage and cleanness.

But, said the first woman seated in the British house of commons, to turn to practical politics, what the world now needed most in a political way was work, and trade was the most practical way to start work.

"Establish confidence" she urged, "first, confidence between capital and labor, then confidence in your government, then confidence in other nations."

There, she continued was where the press came in.

"It is for the press to unite countries for trade and spirit and peace.

"I know many of the American foreign correspondents. They are most able men, a credit to the American press, they are trustworthy. That is the opinion formed by the people who know them in England.

"If the press wants to unite countries, it can. If it wants to disunite them, it can.

"America wants peace. America started the league of nations. All Europe looks to America, not for large armies, not even for food, but for a great moral lead. Help us."

DEFENSE MOTION TO QUASH INDICTMENTS OVERRULED BY JUDGE

By Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. VA., April 25—Omission of the word "feloniously" from the indictment charging treason against district leaders and members of the United Mine Workers in West Virginia in the armed march of last fall, was held insufficient to invalidate the indictment, Judge Woods, decided in circuit court here this afternoon. The motion of the defense to quash the indictment was overruled.

THEFT OF TWO FORDS IS REPORTED TO POLICE, 5 ARRESTS IN TIRE CASES

25 ARMY AVIATORS WILL PARTICIPATE IN CARNIVAL HERE

LEGION ARRANGES WITH POST FIELD ADJUTANT TO SEND FLYERS.

SEVEN PLANES TO FLY IN UNIQUE BATTLE FORMATION

Unusually Spectacular Sight Is Promised As Result of Army Men's Participation.

Army aviators from Post Field to the number of 25 will take part in the American Legion's aerial carnival here April 29 and 30, it was announced Tuesday by A. L. Taylor, who has just concluded arrangements with the adjutant at the Fort Sill post.

This means, Mr. Taylor says, that spectators at the carnival will witness one of the most spectacular sights of their lives when seven of the army flyers perform in battle formation, each plane with the tip of its wing on that of the next plane. De Havilland planes with 400 horsepower Liberty motors will be used and the effect can better be imagined than described.

The flyers will include Maj. T. J. Lanphier, Captain Schulz, First Lieut. W. H. Brockley, First Lieut. E. S. Davis, Capt. Paul Wagner and First Lieut. K. N. Walker.

In addition there will be an entire squadron of cadets here for the meet, and these will enter the various contests.

Lieut. W. H. Brockley is the aviator who carried Sergeant Chambers to a height of 26,800 feet at Kansas City on November 23 last year, when a new altitude record was established.

STEAMSHIP AMERICA COMES TO RESCUE OF MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

By Associated Press

PLYMOUTH, ENGLAND, April 24.—The United States line steamship America, which arrived today went 150 miles out of her course to render medical aid to a gravely injured man on the United States shipping board steamer New England en route to the United States and transferred him to the America after a thrilling battle with a mountainous sea.

The injured man was Second Engineer Boyd R. O'Neal of Baltimore who suffered 17 abdominal wounds and had one leg nearly blown off in an explosion in the engine room. The steamer sent S. O. S. calls for a physician but these were ignored by seven, who offered advice, but sent no assistance.

The America came to the rescue Friday. Chief Officer Green of the America and a physician embarked on a life boat and transferred O'Neal after a fierce battle on a stormy sea.

WILL ANNOUNCE REASON FOR NOT INVITING BRYAN

COLUMBUS, April 25—Reasons why William Jennings Bryan will not be asked to address the International Sunday School convention at Kansas City June 21-27, will be announced here tonight by the program committee, according to Professor Walter R. Athern, of Boston university a member of that committee. Final selection of speakers will be made at tonight's meeting. The Bryan statement, Prof. Athern said, will say that Mr. Bryan will not be asked to attend the convention because he is not a "practical Sunday school man" and not because of his theological or other views.

PRIVATE IS KILLED TWO MORE INJURED AT POST STOCKADE

EL PASO, TEXAS, April 25—Private Charles Ingram was killed, Sergeant Charles P. Kurtha was seriously injured and Corporal Marc Lemieux was slightly hurt when a rifle held by Private Tony Christopher was accidentally discharged at the post stockade here late yesterday.

CANADIAN OFFICIAL OF BROTHERHOOD IS DEAD

CHICAGO, April 25—George K. Wark, Canadian vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, died at his home in Toronto yesterday, according to word received here today. A successor to Mr. Wark will be elected at the national convention of the order in Houston, Texas, beginning May 8.

Dr. E. J. Netherton is here for a few days looking after his oil and cattle interests in Archer county.

TEXAS UNIV. TWIRLER SIGNED BY CONNIE MACK

PHILADELPHIA, April 25—Manager Connie Mack announced today that he had signed Pitcher Bart McMullen of the University of Texas. He is reported to be on his way east.

Godowski Is No Piker; Still Retains Faith in Sky-Pilots

Leopold Godowski, who will entertain Wichita Falls lovers of music Tuesday night at the Wichita Theater, "stepped his foot on the gas" one time to his very great personal danger, but he is no piker. Confronted by the possibility of being late at his own concert Wednesday night in San Antonio, he informed Ernest Katz, under whose personal direction he appears here, Tuesday afternoon that he would like to make arrangements to make the trip by the air route—and they are being made.

A year ago in Houston Mr. Godowski was making a trip to an oil field section when his pilot in a single-control machine, made a false landing in a rice field near Beaumont to locate another machine which had accompanied them and had been lost sight of. The pilot did that "very punishable" thing—left the motor running, and in a few minutes, discomfited by the heat, the great pianist unfastened his belt and prepared to get out. As he started to do so, his hand fumbled the wire control and opened the throttle—and the machine was off.

What happened in the next 10 minutes happened so quickly that Godowski has very little clear recollection of it. The main thing was that when he crawled from under the wreckage of the fallen plane he was the sufferer by nothing more serious than a "scotched knee."

And despite the experience, he has perfect faith in the ability of one of the Call Field pilots to get him to San Antonio tomorrow.

"That is——" he instructed Mr. Katz in his pleasingly accented English, "if it does not cost so much."

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, April 25—Interest centered on the May position at the opening of the cotton market here today notices representing about 25,000 bales were issued but there was buying against trade dealing and covering by shorts which sent the May price up to 18.12 at the opening or 13 points net higher and 40 points above July. The circulation of the notices led to considerable commission house liquidation, however, which had rather an unsettling influence and there was also scattered selling on a private report indicating an increase of 10 per cent increase in cotton acreage.

Scattered liquidation occurred later in the morning with price gradually working down to 17.81 for May and 17.49 for October or about 13 to 18 points net lower on the general list. Reports that the rains were making considerable replanting necessary, gave the market a steady undertone around mid-day, but prices held within a point or two of the lowest.

Complaints of excessive rain in the southwest seemed to make more impression on the early afternoon market and there were rallies of 12 to 16 points from the lowest with May selling up to 17.97 and October to 17.62.

Cotton closed steady.

New Orleans' Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, April 25—Heavy rains in the western belt and cablegrams to local brokers from Liverpool claiming that the Lancashire wage dispute had been settled, put the price of cotton 13 to 14 points higher around the opening today. After May touched 16.95 considerable liquidation came on the market because of estimates from New York that first May notices called for the tender of 25,000 up to 35,000 bales. Only about 1,000 bales were tendered here according to early estimates. Prices fell off until the list was two points over to two points under yesterday, May going to 16.83.

Liquidation of contracts was a factor throughout the morning, and the market fell 6 to 10 points, May trading as low as 16.71. At noon prices were 5 to 8 points up from the lowest.

In the afternoon the tone was much steadier, many Texas points wiring in telling of damage of rains, while it was reported that all notices in both American markets had been stopped. The old crop months firmed up rapidly to the highest levels of the day and at 1:30 o'clock prices were at net advances of 1 to 14 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, April 25—Heavy selling which looked like liquidation on the part of eastern houses led to a decided break in wheat prices today. The opening varied from ½c up to ¼c down. May, $1.46@1.47, July $1.29@1.29¼, was followed by a slight further upturn and then by a rapid descent that in some cases were more than 5c under early top figures.

Subsequently, word of liberal export purchases at the seaboard led to something of a rally but the market turned downward again in the last hour. Weakness of the May delivery was emphasized by the fact that May in the last few days has lost five cents of its premium over July. The close was heavy.

Corn and oats paralleled wheat. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, corn dropped well below yesterday's final figures.

Oats started ¼c to ½c off, July 40¼@40½c and later declined all around.

Provisions were weak with hogs and grains.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 25.—Reactionary tendencies dominated the early dealings in today's stock market, declines outnumbering gains for the first time in several weeks. Among the few exceptions were United States Steel and Studebaker, both scoring fractional advance. New Haven opened unchanged but soon lost half to one point. Oils as a group, were moderately lower with rails and equipment. Columbia Gas made the one noteworthy gain, rising 1¾ points. Automobile specialties, notably the rubber tire division, added to yesterday's gains. Federal Mining and Smelting preferred also displayed pronounced strength. Foreign exchanges were irregular, German marks forfeiting much of their recent recovery.

The general market took its cue from heavy selling of Studebaker after mid-day, that stock falling nearly three points from its earlier high figure. Active selling was persued in all other leaders, many of which dipped one to two points under yesterday's final figures. Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum, Crucible Steel, General Asphalt, American Locomotive, General Electric, United States Rubber and New Haven were among the weakest features.

Further strength of low priced rails, notably Missouri, Kansas and Texas common and preferred and C. & E. I. common, effected partial rallies later among industrials, although money rates hardened. The closing was irregular. Sales, 1,300,000 shares.

WATTS REMOVED ON DISLOYALTY CHARGE; VIOLATED THE RULES

WASHINGTON, April 25—By direction of the attorney general, W. O. Watts, special agent of the department of justice, was removed today "for disloyalty to the department," after the admission that he had furnished to Representative Johnson, South Dakota, certain information, on which Mr. Johnson based an attack on the department in the house.

The order of removal was signed by Assistant Attorney General Holland and was made public by the department. In a letter to Watts, Mr. Holland said the steps were taken "inasmuch as you have knowingly and willingly violated the rules of the department which, as you must be aware, constitute a breach of trust."

DISTURBANCES IN INDIA

By NEA Service.

LONDON, April 17.—Present disturbances in India are manifestations of revolt against British rule which have been smouldering steadily, breaking forth now and then in open revolution, since the British first entered India in 1757.

Past revolts usually have been localized in limited sections of India or participated in by limited groups of the population while the rest of the Hindustan peninsula remained quiet.

India's vast population—between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000—is split into a half dozen different racial groups and a score of widely varying religions.

Very rarely have these rival groups been able to act together in concerted move against the British and this has enabled Britain to hold India in its power with a comparatively small military force.

Sepoy Mutiny.

The only widespread revolution in recent times in which the majority of Indians took part and which really threatened the British government in India was the Sepoy mutiny.

This began at Meerut, near Delhi, May 10, 1857. Its immediate cause was the furnishing of rifle cartridges greased with pork fat, to Mohammedan troops. It is unlawful for a Mohammedan to taste pork.

The Sepoy mutiny was quelled in June 1858.

In the World war India remained loyal to Britain and furnished much aid in men and materials, despite the alleged efforts of German agents to stir up rebellion.

Causes of Unrest.

But since the close of the war, several factors have been at work to cause dissatisfaction among the native population of all races and religions.

Chief among these are:

One—Economic distress which India shares with the rest of the world.

Two—Allied occupation of Constantinople. This has intensified Mohammedan feeling of Great Britain as Christian people is considered a holy place.

Three—Succession of a new amir in Afghanistan with very independent and slightly anti-British tendencies.

Four—The non-co-operationist and passive resistance movement of Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi, recently arrested for sedition.

These things have kept India in a continual turmoil. Many strikes took place in 1921—notably that of textile workers at Bombay and that of tram employes in Calcutta.

Armed uprisings and riots also have been frequent. The most important was the Moplah uprising in north India late in 1921. This was crushed and six districts were placed under martial law.

Since the war the British government has made strong efforts to pacify the peninsula.

The Earl of Reading, former lord chief justice in England, was sent to India as viceroy. One of his first actions was to confer with Gandhi, nationalist leader.

The interview, however, bore little fruit, for Gandhi continued his passive resistance activities.

Early in 1921 a limited kind of self-government went into effect in India under the government of India act.

New Law's Provisions.

India was allowed to have a national parliament, modeled along the lines of the British parliament. It consisted of a council of state, made up of princes and nobles, corresponding to the house of lords, and a legislative assembly, similar to the house of commons.

This national parliament met at Delhi and similar provincial parliaments were set up in various parts of India.

Some dissatisfaction was expressed by natives because the viceroy retained the right to veto any action of the native national parliament.

The great bulk of India's population is made up of low caste petty cultivators who take little part in political activities and have little political consciousness.

Political Parties.

Active political parties in India today are:

Extremists, consisting of Gandhi's non-co-operationist followers, together with radical direct-action revolutionists.

Moderates, who want freedom but are determined to get it by political action.

Intellectuals, consisting of high caste Hindus and educated natives many of whom favor gradual release from British control by educating the people. Srinavasa Sastri British delegate to the Washington arms conference, is representative of this group.

NOT ENOUGH YOUNGSTERS IN AMERICAN LOOP—EVERS

CHICAGO, April 25—The American league has retrograded because of a lack of youth, according to Johnny Evers, member of the White Sox, who has been in the league about a month. He says, also, that Washington has the most likely looking team because most of its players are younger than the average of the league.

WILLIAMS GETS SIXTH HOMER IN FOUR DAYS

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Kenneth Williams, outfielder of the local Americans, slugged his sixth homer in four days at his first time at bat in today's game with Detroit, and surpassed Babe Ruth's record of this time last year. Sisler was on base when Williams knocked the circuit drive on Pitcher Ehmke.

SPARE TIRE IS TOO LARGE; GETS YOUTH INTO TROUBLE

Carrying a spare tire that was manifestly too large for the rather diminutive machine he was driving led to the arrest of an 18 year old boy by City Detective Glenn Monday night. The boy was jailed and Tuesday, after being questioned, admitted that he had stolen the spare from another machine. The boy is only a few months out of the reformatory at Gatesville.

Suits Filed in 89th District Court.

NOTICE IN BANK

BEFORE BIG CROWD BLANTON DEFENDS ACTS IN CONGRESS

SAYS SOME WHO FOUGHT HIM THERE WERE BEATEN FOR RE-ELECTION.

SHOWS WHISKEY FLASK AND OTHER "STATIONERY"

Declares It Is No Trouble For Congressmen to Get Flasks Filled.

They've called me a liar They've said I was false as hell They term me a liability to the democratic party They've given me the De Walt side degree in the house and tried to take away from me what my constituents gave me The newspapers misrepresented me and condemned me said Thomas L Blanton of the 17th congressional district of Texas in speaking to an audience of over 600 people that crowded the 59th district court room of the court house Monday evening

He stated that all this had been done because he termed it graft when—

Representative Clifford of Illinois brought in a resolution proposing to pay all losses of the house of representatives restaurant out of the United States treasury and he opposed it.

Each congressman is entitled to a free trip to Panama once a year and he fought it.

The widow of each congressman who dies is paid $7 000.

Every representative can have bound in leather every periodical published in Washington, free of charge

Each congressman from Texas gets $2 191 44 as mileage for each congress when the fare from Dallas to Washington and return is $102 and each congressman makes three return trips a year

The negro barbers and the negro manicurist and the negro body rubbers in the bath house are drawing their salary from the government

Stationery Allowances.

Congressmen are allowed $375 per congress for stationery from the stationery room and because this money is used in purchasing such things as ladies' stationery, carving sets copper electric chafing dishes, ladies' purses, pocket knives, manicuring sets, ladies' toilet sets poker chips and playing cards, and leather covered whiskey flasks

Members of the house who are placed on special committees submit exorbitant expense accounts

They wanted to pay Hatton Sumners brother-in-law $1,000 for a little extra work that he had done during the 65th congress

And because—

He introduced resolutions in an effort to clean house in various governmental departments

He blocked the passage of 47 bills submitted on private claim day

He opposed giving the widow of President Theodore Roosevelt $5 000 a year as long as she lived when she at that time had as many as 50 servants in her mansion

He pushed his resolution of cleaning out the department of labor, and freed it from such individuals who were harboring anarchy

He blocked the passage of the bill which proposed to raise a congressman's salary from $7 500 to either $10 000 or $12 000 during the reconstruction period

He stopped the giving of Christmas presents to congressmen which consisted annually of one cedar chest one oak chest and one pine chest

Introduced by Judge Martin.

Judge P A Martin introduced Representative Blanton to the audience which not only crowded the seating capacity of the main auditorium and the gallery, but lined the three walls of the building Judge Martin stated that he knew the speaker when he, Blanton, was a young attorney and then later when he occupied the bench at Abilene for eight years

In his preliminary remarks Representative Blanton said that he had always known that Judge Martin was a courageous man, but didn't know that he was courageous enough to introduce a man in such commendable terms who had been maligned from one side of the country to another

A few minutes later he turned to The Times representative and said 'Mr Reporter, I want you to get this straight I haven't said anything nor will I say anything that I haven't told them face to face on the floor of the house"

"It took them from January 13 when I addressed the house until April 5 to get mad ' the speaker said 'In the afternoon Washington papers of April 5 carried the dispatch that my sister had announced she would be a candidate for congress

The next morning on April 6, I was called a liar Not to my face but on the floor of the house where they were protected by the constitution and the rules of the house They called me a liar where I couldn't say anything

His Sister's Campaign

In this connection I want to say that I have nothing to do with my sister and her campaign I wish I was as capable in representing my district, as she will be if elected She won't let me have anything to say about her campaign

I want to say however that when my father and mother left us a family of orphan children my sister took us to the country She washed for us, she cooked for us she sewed for us and she nourished us as a mother and then when we had all grown to a point where we were able to care for ourselves she taught school and then went through the state university

It took them until April 6 to digest what I had said on January 12 The smooth politicians in Washington wanted to beat my sister with the body of her brother

In commenting on the position that he took to the payment of $7 500 to the widows of congressmen who died Representative Blanton stated that when Senator Penrose died he left $212 000 in cash in his safety deposit vault and $250 000 worth of liquor in the cellar of his house

When you die does any one pay your widow $7,500?" the speaker queried his audience

Exhibiting all the articles as mentioned which he said were purchased with stationery money out of the stationery room of the house Representative Blanton spoke at length on this subject He explained that each member is allowed $375 a congress for stationery and that this money is absolutely the individual's to do with it as he pleases

'Many ' he said "take it out in cash because they don't have to spend it for stationery because the committee of which the representative is a member can supply him with all the stationery that he needs free of charge

Shows Whiskey Flask

"The man who denounced me from the floor for opposing this practice and which I termed petty graft," the speaker said, 'was in the habit of drawing all of this $375 out in cash"

Following this he exhibited the various articles that were being handled by the stationery room These he said were being sold to the congressman at wholesale manufacturer's price

When he exhibited the leather bound whiskey flask he stated that the stationery room had such a run on them during Christmas week that the supply was exhausted and in order for him to get the one which he was showing at that time and which he exhibited in the house when opposing this practice the man in charge was forced to order one for him

Some one in audience asked the speaker whether they were being sold 'loaded or empty ' He replied that they were sold empty but that they had the wherewithal to load them with To prove this assertion he read from the St Louis papers where a congressman's house was raided and 45 gallons of liquor were taken from his cellar

'Because I showed them these things" the speaker shouted 'they got mad three months later and said I was a liability to the democratic party '

In speaking of the "padded expense accounts of congressmen who were placed on special committees he said that one item that he remembered was $71 for cigars and taxis

It's all right for a man to buy cigars he said I haven't got anything against that But what right has a congressman to buy cigars and pay for them out of the public's treasury '

"Cleaning Up" Departments

As one of the accomplishments of the introduction of his 13 resolutions in an effort to clean up various departments and for which he said he had been maligned the speaker told of the chief chemist of the United States Charles L. Parsons who was drawing a salary of $4 800 from the government He told that upon investigation it was revealed that the biggest chemical corporation in the country was being housed in a government building

He is not chief chemist any more ' the speaker added

When he blocked the passage of 47 bills presented on private claim day the speaker told of how he was ridiculed by the press throughout the country and cited one Texas newspaper and another Texas newspaper editor as ridiculing him because he was paying attention to little things

Representative Blanton told his audience that for five years he had blocked the passage of one item that carried with it $66 10 000

After he had spoken an hour and a half and intimated that he would stop because the time was getting late there were cries of Go ahead from the audience

Refers to Papers.

I ought to have this Texas editor to whom I have referred and your afternoon paper with me in this fight, he said I would rather give my children the back page of your afternoon paper here to read than the entire —— of Dallas

He spoke of the effort that was made to throw him out of congress and said that the resolution to throw him out was introduced on October 25 his 45th birthday while he had been sent to Wheeling W Va to address a committee of business men in an effort to avert the nation-wide railroad strike that was pending at that time They censored me he said

He cited four instances where he had been ridiculed by representatives in the house for the stand that he had taken on these various petty graft' items In each case he sent copies of the congressional record to the constituents of these men He added by saying 'All these men since the last elections in their districts have decided to become private citizens '

He had The Times representative verify some of his statements with reference to the savings that he had effected by the blocking of certain resolutions and measures as printed in various newspapers and in a book edited by Samuel Gompers head of the department of labor

Questioner Is Hooted.

Near the conclusion of his address he gave people an opportunity to ask questions Attorney F G Swanson inquired why it was that he was paying so much attention to the small things when in fact 97 per cent of the money was being spent for the army and navy

There were several cries of 'sit down and 'throw him out '

Representative Blanton however waved them to silence and said that was one of the best questions that had ever been asked him

Take for example the shipping board ' he said $800 000 000 of money is being spent there that is graft When you go to them and ask them to cut this out they'll tell you to go back and clean house at home You can't stop the big ones when you are up to your elbows in petty graft yourself Clean house at home first and then start on the bigger ones '

In closing he told of one of his experiences in west Texas where he was sent to market with 35 carload of cattle He said he delivered the cattle to the market without a loss and as a token of appreciation for his services the shipper had given him a prod pole upon his return

I take this prod pole to Washington with me he said and use it All I am trying to do is to stop this petty graft and put the democratic party back on the footing where it will again enjoy the confidence of the people Are you with me"

QUANAH PURE FOOD SHOW ATTRACTS RECORD CROWD

QUANAH April 25—The second annual pure food show held in the American Legion hall by the ladies of the Methodist church Friday and Saturday was attended by a record crowd and was considered a great success Wholesale and retail firms displayed their wares held demonstrations and gave away premiums and souvenirs

Various contests were held the most interesting of which was the baby show in which 35 babies were entered

FORMER BANK CASHIER SURRENDERS AT DECATUR

DECATUR TEXAS, April 25—Former Cashier J A Giles of the Park Springs First State bank missing since February 21 arrived in Decatur Monday and went to the county jail and surrendered

Mr Giles is charged with having taken funds from the bank He waived examining trial and bond was placed at $3 000

ANOTHER ONE HALF INCH OF RAIN IS RECORDED LOCALLY

The showers of Monday and Monday night netted nearly another half inch of rain locally according to measurements made by George Simmons The showers Monday morning netted two-tenths of an inch and the same amount was recorded during the night

Railroad dispatchers received reports that the same amounts were recorded at points from Fort Worth to Amarillo and from Dallas to Altus North of Altus no rain fell Monday night but agents Tuesday morning reported good showers

Cooler temperatures and clouded skies were reported from all points Tuesday morning There was but little wind movement

Only one small washout was recorded by the railroads on account of the heavy rains In this instance 12 feet of bridge was washed away but this was repaired in time without causing any delay in traffic

"Come on, Alice, you know Mother said we are going to have Kellogg's Corn Flakes for lunch. And that's the kind I like to eat about a whole box of, because they ain't tough to eat! Come on an' hurry up!"

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a taste-thrill at meals or any time

That's because Kellogg's Corn Flakes are so deliciously flavored—the Kellogg flavor that is known all over the civilized world! You, as well as the little folks, can eat great bowlfuls of Kellogg's Corn Flakes day after day—and each sunny-brown, crispy, crunchy spoonful thrills the taste as though it was the first!

Put Kellogg's in comparison with imitation corn flakes! Kellogg's Corn Flakes are never tough or leathery or hard to eat! They are all-the-time crisp, all-the-time good! Don't miss such enjoyment!

Insist upon Kellogg's in the RED and GREEN package that bears the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Corn Flakes! NONE ARE GENUINE WITHOUT IT!

Don't forget, KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes are made by the folks who gave you the JUNGLELAND Moving Pictures. Coupon inside every package of KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes explains how you can obtain another copy of JUNGLELAND.

SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 13
FOR CONGRESS
Thirteenth District
DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY JULY 22

To the People of the Thirteenth Congressional District:

A congressman is to be elected in this district for the next two years. We present for your consideration the name of Senator Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas. We are his neighbors, living in the same county with him; most of us have known him intimately for several years. He is a life-long Democrat, always found in the ranks battling for the good of his country and party. He is an upright Christian gentleman—one of the very best neighbors, and the truest friend one ever had. When his country called he was ever ready to answer the call; when his party called the Democrat host to arms to battle for its principles, its tenets, he asked no further questions, but with the Democrats' declaration of war in hand, his only inquiry was: "Where is the enemy that dares tread upon the peoples' rights?" and the battle was on.

From his earliest boyhood the cry of the distressed found a sympathetic hearer and a ready helper in him. From his early youth to his present status, he has heeded the admonition, "Remember thy father and thy mother." As a business man he adopted as his slogan, "Honesty is the best policy," and on this principle, adding to it economy and industry, he has succeeded. His neighbors have always found him ready to help them to bear their burdens. As an officer in this county, he applied the same principles as he used in his own business and succeeded in honoring the office, as well as the office honoring him. As a thinker and statesman we point you to his record from his earliest manhood, culminating in his record as a Senator.

Having a splendid personality and a happy way of meeting people, armed with a great fund of business and political information, and a diplomatic mind, no wonder on entering upon his duties as a Senator he at once took front rank. His great work and service in the Senate will appeal to all men and women who believe in great Democratic principles; you will not be disappointed if he is elected. He has never disappointed anyone who put his trust in him.

We, the undersigned Democratic citizens of Wise County, Texas, hereby endorse Guinn Williams of Decatur, Texas, as a candidate for Congress from the Thirteenth Congressional District of Texas and will do all in our power to fairly and honestly secure his nomination at the Democratic Primary Election to be held July 22, 1922, and we pledge ourselves at all proper times and places to work, talk and vote for his election.

URGES IMPORTANCE OF STREAMS AS AID TO TRANSPORTATION

USE IS NECESSARY TO PREVENT TIE UP SAYS LEGISLATOR

SAYS RAILROADS UNABLE TO HANDLE THE SITUATION

Calls Attention to Great Loss to Farmers Following the World War.

KANSAS CITY April — Water transportation over the Mississippi and Missouri rivers is practical cheap and necessary if a tie up of transportation is to be avoided when the next extensive revival of business occurs Representative Cleveland A Newton St Louis told the opening session of the Mississippi Valley association here today

Cut-throat rates said Mr Newton have long been practiced by the railroads in their efforts to prevent water transportation in this country and they are not only destructive to river navigation but destructive to the railroads themselves Experience shows that the roads never and never will be able to compete with water transportation and every attempt that they make in that direction is a source of needless expense

Railroad rates on lines paralleling rivers Mr Newton said, are about fifty per cent of the rates charged in other sections of the country and even with that handicap the barge line between St Louis and New Orleans has been able to haul commodities at 80 per cent of the rates charged by the railroads and make money He criticized the interstate commerce commission for permitting what he called unfair and unreasonable rates on lines paralelling rivers and said that the division of the proceeds of joint rail and water rates was unfair to the large lines

'At the close of the world war Kansas had an abundance of wheat the market was strong and the price high, but the cars to haul wheat were not available Before the railroads could supply the cars to move this wheat the market had gone down until there was a loss to the farmers of Kansas amounting to more than $80 000 000 Unless transportation facilities are increased this thing will occur again If the Missouri river had been improved a few cars could have hauled this wheat to Kansas City where it could have been loaded upon barges and carried to the market while the price was high and at a low freight rate Surely the farmers of Kansas are interested in having this thing made possible

'The great difficulty comes from the fact that few members of congress from this great river district have taken very little action on it Surely the farmers of this region do not understand the need of river navigation or they would arouse an active interest among their representatives in congress

The commerce of the country must have a cheaper and more adequate form of transportation for its bulky commodities And where can you find such transportation except on the use of our waterways?'

The meeting was opened by George A Williams Decatur Illinois and Senator William B McKinley of Illinois president of the Mississippi Valley association was present Messages from President Harding Secretary Hoover and Governor Parker of Louisiana were read and welcoming addresses delivered by Governor McQuade of Missouri and F O Faeth president of the Kansas City chamber of commerce

COMMISSION MAKES A REPORT ON STATUS OF RURAL HIGHWAYS

LARGE EXPENDITURES WILL BE REQUIRED TO MEET THE DEMANDS.

RECOMMEND CONGRESS PROMOTE CONSTRUCTION

Report Also Discusses Interurbans and Improvement in Postal Service.

WASHINGTON April 25—Large expenditures will be necessary to bring the 2 500 000 miles of rural highways in the United States up to meet the increased need of motor transportation in the opinion of the joint congressional commission of agricultural inquiry whose general conclusions were announced today by Chairman Anderson In a second report of the commission studies the first having dealt with agricultural freight rates the chairman also made known its conclusions regarding electric railway development as affecting rural communities and questions relating to the postal service

The commission Chairman Anderson said will recommend that congress continue to promote an adequate program of highway construction and maintenance directed to the more effective correlation of highway transportation with rail and water transportation and that the states and counties also continue their highway programs with particular reference to farm-to-market roads

The necessity of cooperation among the states to effect a uniform basis for taxing motor trucks and other motor vehicles to facilitate the building of highways for use of such vehicles will be urged by the commission it was said as well as the need for uniform regulation of motor traffic

The commission was said to view with optimism the future of the interurban lines serving rural communities recognizing the need for such lines to serve territories that cannot be profitably served by steam lines

The commission's study of the postal service as relating to the farmer was said to have convinced it that 'increased postage rates on second class mail matter notwithstanding reductions of fourth class matter (parcel post) has been particularly burdensome on some farm publications

The commission will recommend to congress the chairman said, 'to determine what branches of the postal service are self sustaining with a view to making the entire system self sustaining

The purpose of holding the postal service responsive to the needs of the agricultural community should be constantly kept in view

By ALBERT J SMITH

The signature presented here of the divine Sarah Bernhardt (Mme d Amola) was penned in 1916 in her 74th year four years after passing through a severe surgical operation Her handwriting denotes no depreciation of her vigor or energy but to the contrary it denotes considerable of both elements bodily and mental strength

All who pretend to know the divine Sarah admit her intensive emotional nature This quality is clearly pictured in her handwriting by the very sloping form of the letters leaning to the right at an angle of almost 45 degrees

This slope of the hand denotes one who is extremely affectionate generous and self sacrificing It also signifies an animated nature with tendencies to impulsiveness and demonstrativeness

Hooked Letters.

It requires pluck and great tenacity of purpose for one to undergo an ordeal such as befell Madame Bernhardt Courage both physical and moral is the stimulus behind the resolution of this remarkable woman and she possesses both

Observe the hook on the end of the t crossing in Bernhardt this same hook runs throughout her script nearly every t bar being provided with this emblem of determination and tenacity of purpose Many of her terminals are also hooked

Madame Bernhardt's hopeful ambitious nature is revealed in the ascending lines of her writing It does not ascend inordinately but consistently and betokens that

TELL OF SEMENOFF ATTACKS

CHARLES HARVEY

LIEUTENANT COLONEL CHARLES H MORROW

By NEA Service

NEWARK, O., April 25 — Morrow's story is true—only conditions were worse than he paints them

That's what George Harvey, local veteran of the American expeditior in Siberia, says of the accusations of Lieutenant Colonel Charles H Morrow against the Cossack leader General Gregorie Semenoff, now in this country

Morrow, who lives at Frankfort, Ky was commander of the 27th United States infantry at Verkhne Udinsk Siberia

He charges that soldiers allegee to have been part of Semenoff's command, murdered hundreds of men women and children in a campaign against the bolsheviki, pillaged marauded and at times fired on the American troops

Morrow repeated these charges at a senate hearing to determine whether Semenoff, now in New York, should be deported as an undesirable alien

Harvey is the only American soldier who ever re-enlisted for service in Siberia he claims He was in the region where Semenoff operated much longer than Morrow

Jailed and Beaten.

I've seen men, women and children dragged through the streets of Verkhne-Udinsk to the city prisons and horribly beaten for the most trivial offenses Harvey says

'One day a girl of 18 was taken to the prison to be questioned She staggered out with her forehead crushed and was blinded for life by the brutal treatment she received.

'Filled with soldiers of Semenoff's command an armored train stopped near our camp one night opened fire and killed five of our men We answered the attack and beat off the Cossacks That was January 10 1920

Later an explosive shell was thrown from the same train It tore the leg from an American soldier We then attacked vigorously and captured Semenoff's men, including two generals and 75 captains

During part of his enlistment, Harvey served in Morrow's command

Hunch, Prejudice, or Logic?

Which Do YOU Use in Placing Your Advertising?

A hunch may tell you where to invest your advertising dollars; you may win by following a prejudice for certain publications; but a sane and careful analysis of the field and the mediums which cover it is the best basis for a decision.

When you place an advertising contract, the only business-like way to decide where to get the best returns is by logical analysis. And the way to get information for this analysis from the statistical reports made by the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The A. B. C. examines thoroughly every record kept by its newspaper members which has a bearing upon the circulation or distribution. Figures are verified. Methods of securing subscribers are scrutinized and reported upon. The distribution is checked and subscribers classified in such a way as to aid in surveying the market.

The advertiser using A. B. C. reports does not have to piece together bits of information. When he places a campaign after reading the facts about an A. B. C. paper, as given in a report by the Bureau, he knows that every paper of every issue is going to count. He will reach the reader he wants.

CANDIDATES DISCUSS THE ISSUED INVOLVED IN PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

MORGAN ATTACKS RECORD OF WILLIAMS IN SENATE

Differ On Soldier Bonus and On the Tariff Question—Speak at Odell.

VERNON, TEXAS, April 25—Guinn Williams of Decatur and S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls, candidates for the unexpired term of Lucian W. Parrish in the special election May 13 and for the nomination to congress next July held a joint debate here Monday afternoon before a crowd which completely filled the district court room Dr J. E Dodson, local physician, presided and introduced the speakers.

Mr Williams spoke for 30 minutes and was followed by Mr. Morgan who held the floor for threes quarters of an hour Mr Williams then followed with a brief rebuttal An enthusiastic reception was given each candidate. The aspirants for office are on a joint two weeks tour in the district for the purpose of conserving the time of their constituents in attending meetings

Mr Williams, speaking first contented himself with merely stating the platform on which he was running This consisted in the main of many of the principles advocated by Morgan, with a slight variance on matters of immigration and compensation for soldiers Concerning the latter, Mr Williams stated that he is in favor of a cash bonus provided the people are not taxed to provide it He explained further that he favors the erection of hospitals for the sick and disabled and the educating of those who have been incapacitated and lost earning power Mr Williams declared that he will favor the erection of a memorial to American soldiers in the event the legion launches such a program

Concerning immigration the Decatur candidate advocated closing our doors to all foreigners until such time that a plan can be devised for eliminating the thousands of undesirables who yearly come to our shores Only those should be admitted, he claimed, who would contribute to the educational purposes of this nation.

Mr Williams placed great emphasis on the need of business men in the governing bodies of our country He pointed out that inefficiency is costing the nation millions, and explained that sound business principles are the only remedy for the situation Remaining points dealt with were the usual espousing of state's rights, attacking the interstate commerce commission, remedying extravagance in the federal reserve banking system, elimination of tax free securities, revision of tax laws and aids for agriculture Concerning the tariff, Mr Williams committed himself to a tariff for revenue only

Mr Morgan, who spoke at the close of his opponent's address, immediately opened a flood gate of contention toward statements made in the preceding speech, and toward statements he anticipated as yet to come from Mr Williams He charged Williams with taking a dual stand on the soldier bonus In what other way, said the Wichita Falls aspirant, can a cash bonus be raised other than by taxing the people? Friends of his opponent, said Mr Morgan, have been telling the people that Mr. Williams is in favor of such remuneration when in truth he is not

Concerning immigration Mr Morgan asserted we have no room for the foreigner who will not make this country his first love, but to set up an arbitrary discrimination would be to provide the nation with a Chinese wall We must consider our markets before we take any rash steps to prevent outsiders from entering our country, said the speaker.

Mr Morgan bitterly assailed his opponent over his record as former chairman of the state penitentiary committee. He charged that the action of Williams in blocking a bill for more than $800 000 in appropriations caused the state to recently borrow money with which to support the institution This has caused huge expenditures for interest, he said, while public funds have been lying idle

Taking up Mr Williams challenge that anyone point out a bill for which he voted detrimental to the people's interests, Mr Morgan cited the well-known truck law of last year, later repealed He charged that his opponent voted in favor of the measure without having read the bill He stated further that the Decatur candidate voted against the bill requiring six years of higher education for those practicing medicine in the state

Mr. Morgan flew to the defense of lawyers in our law making bodies, and offered refutation to the charge of Mr Williams that more business men are essential He charged his opponent with inconsistency on the tariff question, and with having made the statement that women show more judgment at the polls than do the men Williams was also roundly scored for having made a statement that he formerly had traded mules, but that more mule sense is needed in congress.

Mr Morgan spoke briefly of his platform, and reiterated many of the points made here in his opening speech two weeks ago Among other things he declared favoring the elimination of huge armaments

Mr. Williams in his five minute rejoinder defended himself from several of the charges made by his opponent, and challenged an attack on his record in the state legislature. He received hearty applause at the close of his retort.

Both candidates spoke Monday night at Odell, about 12 miles northwest of here

NET INCOME FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS FIFTY PER CENT BELOW 1920

NEW YORK, April 25—Net income of the federal reserve bank of New York in 1921 was more than 50 per cent less than that of the preceding year

The annual report of the bank made public today, shows net income of $26,093 832 in 1921, compared with $53,128,136 in 1920

The reduction is attributed to a reduction during 1921 of 63 per cent in the bank's earnings assets, accompanied by successive reductions in discount rates from 7 per cent to 4½ per cent, the report said

JUDGE JONES WILL ADVOCATE FIFTEEN PER CENT REDUCTION

COUNTY TAX RATE WILL BE RAISED BUT WILL SAVE TAXPAYERS $75,000.

RENDITION REDUCTION WILL SAVE ON STATE TAX

County Judge Presents Figures to Verify His Contention Of Saving Effected.

Judge J P Jones county judge and head of the county equalization board is advocating a reduction in tax renditions and a raise in the county rate He stated Tuesday that he would attempt to put this measure through when the board meets in August in order that the taxpayers of the county might be benefited

According to the figures which the judge prepared in support of his contention, the reduction of 15 per cent in renditions and raising the county rate from 75 cents as it was last year to a figure between 85 and 90 cents it will effect a saving to the taxpayers of Wichita county of over $75 000

The saving effected comes by reason of the fact that a smaller amount of state tax will have to be paid

Judge Jones' figures were based on an estimated valuation of the county this year at $70 000 000 which is some two million dollars less than in 1921 A 15 per cent reduction will cut off this valuation $10,500,000

The state rate last year was 82 cents and it is believed that it will be the same for 1922 At this rate the difference or a saving to the taxpayers of this county would be $62,500,000

The anual cost of operations for the county amounts to $1,25 000 A 90 cent county tax rate based on the estimated valuation less the proposed 15 per cent reduction which would place it at $59 500,000 would bring into the county treasury a total of $535 500 or $10 500 more than was needed last year

Although it is premature to ascertain just what amount the county will need for the next year's expense, it is believed that it will not be any higher This $10 000 plus the saving effected in tax to the state brings the total over the $75,000 mark

PLAN A PUBLIC ROAD HEDLEY TO LAKEVIEW

HEDLEY TEXAS April 25—At a call meeting of the Hedley chamber of commerce here today the most important matter taken up was the question of opening a public road south from Hedley to Lakeview, a distance of 12 miles It is estimated that it will cost not less than $4,000 to construct this road Petitions are being circulated to secure these funds by public subscription According to Mr R E Mann, local unit director of the west Texas chamber of commerce, this link is of the utmost importance because it will connect the Ozark trail from Hedley with the Oxbow bridge, and this will be a saving of 35 miles on travel from the north and west country to the plains country via the Caprock route The Ozark trail is one of the most important highways criss crossing the lower panhandle plains country

Helps digestion
—and cleans a coated tongue

Thousands of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by eating Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive process. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and malted milks. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Beware! Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer today.

Semi-Annual Clearance Sale

SATURDAY, MONDAY AND TUESDAY CONVINCED US THAT PEOPLE APPRECIATE QUALITY MERCHANDISE AT BARGAIN PRICES

Cash Sales Were Heavier With Us Saturday Than Any Day for 18 Months

Our Sale of Our Entire Stock Continues Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday

The Reason for This Sale

We are desirous of clearing our shelves and cases of all Spring merchandise to make room for incoming stocks of Summer goods. Rather than wait until the close of the Spring season we offer this sale just as the merchandise is most needed by our customers. Our buyers are now placing orders for our stocks of Summer merchandise and present stocks must be sold before these goods are received. Remember this sale closes Saturday, 8:30 p. m., April 29th.

Goods That Are On Sale

$200,000 Department Store stocks of the newest merchandise and the best quality ever assembled in this section of Texas. Twenty-one complete departments, each one a store in itself, offers choice stocks of merchandise at clearance sale prices. These stocks have been bought from the leading manufacturers in America in large quantities at the lowest possible cash prices and we now reduce these prices for this greatest of all clearance sales. Sale ends 8:30 p. m. Saturday, April 29.

Rules Governing Sale

Sale prices are for cash only. We are going into the markets with cash to buy our Summer stocks and on account of the tremendous amount of business that we will do in these seven selling days we will only have time to wrap and deliver the goods. Goods will not be sold on approval. However, we will refund the money on any item that does not please, as we guarantee every dollar's worth of merchandise in this store to be reduced in price and of standard quality. Sale closes Saturday, April 29th.

$200,000 Department Store Stock on Sale, for Cash Only

No Approvals—Money Refunded on Goods That Do Not Please

WITHOUT QUOTING A PRICE

It would be very easy for us to fill this page with a few extraordinary leaders and call it a sale, but instead of doing that, we have reduced the price on every item in the store and included every department in this great semi-annual clearance sale. Remember this sale is for seven days only beginning Saturday, April 22nd, and closes 8:30 p. m. Saturday, April 29th. It would be impossible to give descriptions and quote prices on this $200,000 stock of merchandise, but we have reduced the price on every item in the store.

A GUARANTEE Backed Up With Four Years of SERVICE

We have built this business on better quality-newer styles at lower prices and fair and honest dealings with the general public. The people of Wichita Falls and this section of Texas have appreciated this to such an extent that this store has grown from one of the smaller stores to be one of the largest in Wichita Falls. Our guarantee back-up with this four years' of service is that every price in our store has been reduced. That the merchandise is of our usual standard quality and that we will refund the money where purchases are not satisfactory to the customer.

Our Entire Second Floor Filled With

LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR

Ladies' Suits, Coats, Dresses are all included in this sale, as well as our beautiful stocks of Millinery, Art Goods, Gift Shop Goods, Underwear, Corsets and Misses' and Infants' Wear Department.

We have made extreme reductions in our stocks of ready-to-wear in order that we would sell out practically the entire stock, as our buyers have placed orders for complete new stocks of Summer Ready-to-Wear. This is a wonderful opportunity for buying ready-to-wear at bargain prices just when the season demands this class of merchandise.

Sale prices are for cash only and no approvals, but we will refund the money to anyone not pleased with their purchases if returned not later than twenty-four hours after the purchase. All we ask is that you pay cash and if you are not pleased we will refund your money.

$75,000 Stock of DRY GOODS, HOSIERY NOTIONS and GLOVES

We believe this to be the finest and most complete stock of dry goods in Wichita Falls and stocks are now filled with all the wanted materials for the season. LaPorte Silks, Woolen and Cotton Piece Goods, Holeproof and Kayser Hosiery, Simmons and Centemeri Gloves, Draperies, Ribbons, etc., are all included in this semi-annual clearance sale at reduced prices. Extra experienced salespeople have been employed to take care of the extraordinary large crowds that will attend this sale.

A Complete Men's Clothing Store Now On Sale

$50,000 Stock to Select From

Men you can buy anything you want from an Arrow collar to a Kuppenheimer suit of clothing at bargain sale prices during our semi-annual clearance sale.

Stetson and Mallory Hats, No-Fade Shirts, Arrow Collars, Kuppenheimer Suits, Holeproof Hosiery, Underwear, Ties, Belts, etc., are all included in this semi-annual clearance sale at reduced prices.

BEAUTY CREAM

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair by Washing It

When you wash your child's hair be careful what you use Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali which is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo for this is pure and entirely greaseless It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft fresh looking bright fluffy wavy and easy to handle Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust dirt and dandruff You can get Mulsified at any drug store and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified—(adv)

Beauty Talk

By Louise Huff

Los Angeles Cal.—That dainty and charming actress Louise Huff noted for her wonderful complexion is also a writer of many articles on the subject of beauty She gladly tells the readers of this paper how they may quickly acquire a fresh clear white complexion Here is her method

To get the best results the skin must be thoroughly cleansed daily with a good cleansing cream Lightly rub a cold cream on Then apply Derwillo which you can secure at the toilet counter of any up to date department store This combination instantly improves the complexion and I use nothing else

Over one million are now using Derwillo in preference to face powders and other beautifiers and they are all just enthusiastic over it as Miss Huff Derwillo and Liska cold cream try them today You will be delighted.—adv.

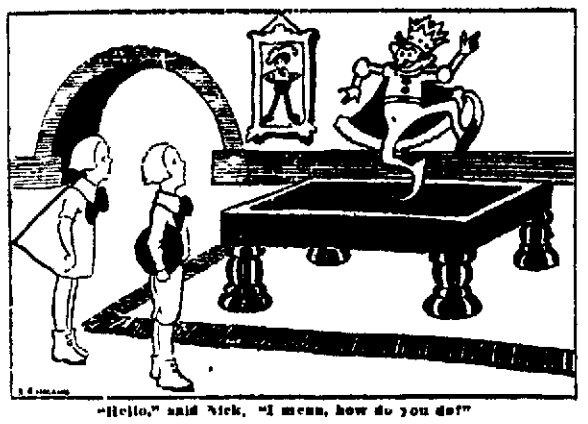
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

KING INDIG

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON



"Hello," said Nick, "I mean, how do you do?"

Hello Twins

King Indig stopped with one foot in mid air as the Twins appeared in the doorway of the room where he was playing hop scotch on one of his billiard tables

He'lo said Nick "I mean how do you do" he corrected himself when he remembered that he was addressing a king Nancy dropped a curtsey

The King put down his foot and jumped off the table

Who are you" he asked amiably And do you play hop scotch

Yes your highness answered Nick gravely

Then come on and play '

I'm sorry said Nick but we can't stay We're on a journey and it's only half over

He was thinking that this was a queer king who had nothing to do but play while others were working so hard to make him happy

Where to" asked the king Nick told him about the record and Longhead and all the rest of it

The king laughed That's fine he cried But your journey's over You need not go over the Seven Valleys to the Kingdom of the Korsknotts I'll save you the trouble right now by putting the record on a phonograph in the music room I'm so much handsomer than ugly old King Verdo that there isn't any dispute whatever If the thousand years are up I'll marry Princess Therma tomorrow

So saying he took the record from Nick strode past the Twins and out of the door You may come along if you wish he called over his shoulder And he also invited all his servants and attendants and courtiers to follow

I want you all to hear ' said he that your master is going to be married Tomorrow you shall have a queen'

He put on the record and started his phonograph And this is what it said The only needle that will make me talk is the third peg in the heel of King Verdo's left boot

Oh pshaw said King Indig You children will have to finish your journey after all So hurry up

Well—You Can Guess Awhile Who The "Get Thins" Are; We Won't Tell

Wichita Falls has another secret organization

Great slices of distress' Page Judge Nagler boy

Are you a member of the Get Thins?

Have you ever been a member of the Get Thins

Do you know any woman who has been is or ever will be a member of the 'Get Thins"

No you don't and what's more you probably won't It's going to be kept a secret—the membership roll All that has been divulged so far is that there are 18 members and that those 18 members will probably have 18 more members on the carpet for the charter membership and that the foces will be added to at the rate of 45 or 50 every once in a while That there are more eligible candidates to the square foot in Wichita Falls for membership in the new organization than there would be in any other city of near her size in the whole United States That startling and absolutely veracious statistic was furnished by the buyer of one of the biggest local stores He didn't word it just that way of course what he said was that he places more orders for stouts in the eastern markets than any other city in the United States of near 40 000 population

Next year he may not be able to make that statement not if the G T s carry out their present plan of campaign and from the energetic start they are making they are not only going to carry it out but they're going to carry it so far out they'll meet themselves coming back Their constitution and by laws are to be prepared at business meeting at the Y W C A some time this week or next following a lecture especially for the organization by Dr Eugene Christian of New York the world famed food specialist and dietician on Thursday morning at 10 o clock at the First M E church South

After organization the Get Thins will meet once a week at the Y W C A constituting themselves an auxiliary to the Y W

But you will have to picket the First Methodist church Thursday morning if you want to hazard a guess at the membership of the new secret order—and then it'll only be a guess as a general invitation has been extended to all interested to hear Dr Christian's lecture

OUR FIRST YEAR

CHAPTER XXII—WORLD'S BEST HUSBAND

By a Bride

Start This Series Here.

The bride and groom are trying to maintain individual freedom But the groom comes home after a hard business day and is chained to a dish towel

Certainly this is not a cheerful home for my tired hubby to come to I whispered Jack, dearest I'm so sorry

I know that I have the grandest husband in the world Jack at last became conscious of the confusion about him There wasn't a restful spot for his eyes to rest upon and it was 6 p m He must have flinched inwardly. For his mother is a descendant of New England housewives one who has profited by modern inventions Her home is the perfect combination of inherited housewifery with vacuum cleaners and mangles

But my adorable husband refused to be irritated by the upheaval in our little home

Come on Peggins he exclaimed Let's fix it up together Let's make it an adventure

And things would have been all right if Mary Smith had not stopped with a bundle of novels for me

Aren't husbands angels I glowed too enthusiastically in order to conceal my humiliation

Some of them are Mary shook her finger fetchingly at Jack Mary Smith is one of those devoted wives who scheme to get away from home once in a while to talk with other girls husbands She's so genuinely Victorian that she dares to come close to coquetry sometimes

Jack with a dish towel in his hand' Have I lived to see that' Why man alive you're spoiling Peg Don't do your work and hers too"

Then Mary turned to me with "Peg' Take it from me' You can get away with it once in a year' If it's your first year' But be careful how often you repeat the little joke' Keep it up—and see what comes of it'"

I knew perfectly well what would come of it Jack would find out that his wife was not holding up her end of the housekeeping business as Mary Smith and his mother surely did.

Perhaps it was as well that Mary caught me in the depths of my disgrace For then and there I resolved never again to make such an exhibition of my own inefficiency

I guess what I need is more will power It's easy enough for me to promise myself to do big things Jack is different He seems never to have to call upon his will power to make himself do anything He never has to make a deliberate choice between right and wrong

And because he is so right, normally, he has such boundless faith in me Never once did he hold me responsible for the disorder in my apartment He simply concluded that I had done the best I could, and that I wasn't to blame, that it was unavoidable

"Better hire a woman to help you Peggins Get her several days a week he suggested

'But we can't afford her—if we abide by our budget," I reminded him 'I can have her two days a week and no more'' And I ought to have added that that was enough in a family of two in a flat of three rooms and a bath

"Can't you afford her while the rehearsals last''

Oh, Jack is so thoughtful so dear'

He must not discover how indolent I can be 'by fits and starts."

PAINS ACROSS SMALL OF BACK

Husband Helped in Housework. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Strong

Foster, Oregon —"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains across the small of my back. They bothered me so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing for women, so I began to take it. It has helped me wonderfully. I am feeling fine, do all my housework and washing for seven in the family I have been irregular too, and now am all right. I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time."—Mrs Wm. Juhnke, Foster, Oregon.

Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

RAILROAD TO FIGHT CROSSING ON LAMAR FOR NEW HIGHWAY

CITY COUNCIL HEARS BOTH SIDES OF CONTROVERSY MONDAY NIGHT.

ALDERMEN DISAGREE, DECISION POSTPONED

Ohio and Lamar Contingents Present Their Arguments at Lively Session.

In spite of the fact that the county commissioners and some members of the city council favor the Lamar street route for the paved highway to Clay county, adoption of that street is still very much in doubt, it developed at a hearing on the matter at the city council session Monday night.

The Wichita Valley will fight any effort to establish a new crossing at that point, it was stated, and the fact that a condemnation contest would delay the paving may be a factor in the situation. The plans for the road at that point would put the crossing squarely in the middle of a switch, and the road opposes it for that reason. The county commissioners are said to be against using the present crossing, which involves either a hairpin turn or the use of another street before turning into Jalonick.

The council heard some rather raspinarious arguments of the question Monday night, went into executive session, got back into open council, and then announced that it was not in agreement on the subject and that further time would be asked.

A petition signed by about 350 citizens, including, it was said, a number of Ohio avenue property owners, was presented by J. C. Hunt on behalf of the Lamar street route Mr. Hunt presented the claims of the Lamar avenue folks and said among other things that the proposed Ohio-Mississippi route went too close to the flats. For this assertion he was more or less bitterly assailed during the evening, and later said that he did not have any intention of reflecting on anyone who lived on lower Ohio or Mississippi streets, but that he stuck to his statement that the alternate route would go too close to the flats

Ralph Hines, S. T. McQuigg and I. H. Roberts spoke for the Lamar route. R. E Huff, J. L. Jackson and Myles O Reilly contended for the Ohio-Mississippi passage.

The Lamar folks contended that their route was the most attractive, that it entailed only one crossing, that it was the most direct, the most convenient, the most generally desired and the most logical

Supporters of the Ohio-Mississippi route replied that it had been understood, when the bonds were voted, that the old Meridian highway would be followed, that street cars on Lamar made it undesirable for a highway and that the fact that the part of town was not as attractive was reason why the council should encourage its improvement and upbuilding.

I H Roberts, who spoke for the Lamar route, said that he owned property on both Ohio and Lamar.

The inability to get the new crossing at the junction of Lamar and Jalonic without a fight with the railroad was pointed to by the Ohio-Mississippi faction as an argument in favor of their route.

And there the matter stands until next council meeting

"Ah!" Then came the sound of heavy steps, and Barry glanced towards the door, to see framed there the gigantic form of a grinning, bearded man, his long arms hanging with the looseness of tremendous strength, his gray eyes gleaming with twinkling interest, his whole being and build that of a great, good-humored, eccentric giant. Then the voice came, rumbling, yet pleasant:

"He no remember, eh?"

"No. I know him all right. It's Barry Houston—I've been expecting him to drop in most any day.

"Eet is the——" Ba'tiste was waving one hand vaguely, then placing a finger to his forehead——"Eet is the——"

"Amnesia" The answer had come from the girl now standing in the doorway.

"Ah, oui' Eet is the amnesia."

"Then there's nothing for me to do, except to drop in every few days You'll take good care of him?" asked Thayer

"Ah, Oui"

"Good Want to walk a piece down the road with me, Medaine?"

Then they faded through the doorway, and Barry could hear no more But he found himself wondering about the girl and her interest in Fred Thayer, and whether she, too, might be a part of the machinery which he felt had been set up against him, about the big, grinning Ba'tiste who now was fumbling about with the bedclothes at the foot of the bed and——

"Ouch! Don't—don't do that'"

Barry suddenly had ceased his thoughts to jerk his feet far up under the covers, laughing and choking and striking to talk at the same time. At the foot of the bed, Ba'tiste, his eyes twinkling more than ever, had calmly rolled back the covering and tickled the injured man's feet.

"Ho, ho'" and Ba'tiste turned to talk to the shaggy dog at his side "L'enfant feels it! L'enfant feels it'"

"Feel it," grunted Houston. "Of course I feel it' I'm ticklish"

"So" Ba'tiste grinned and wagged a finged. "You no tell the truth. I know. I tickle your feet."

"You're crazy!"

"So, mebbe. Ba'tiste have his trouble"

The face suddenly aged The twinkling light left the eyes Then, "But Ba'tiste he know—see? When eet is the—what-you-say, amnesia—the nerve eet no work in the foot. I could tickle, tickle, tickle, and you would not know So you are—shamming But you are Ba'teese gues' You sleep in Ba'teese bed Ba'teese——" he looked with quiet, fatherly eyes toward the young man on the bed—"shall ask no question—and tell no tales'"

CHAPTER III

The simple statement of the gigantic trapper swept the confidence from Houston and left him at a disadvantage. His decision had been a hasty one, a scheme to take Thayer off his guard.

"When's the doctor coming again?" asked Barry.

The big man snapped his fingers. "Peuff! Like that. Ba'teese call heem, and he is here. Ba'teese—he is heem.

"Ba'teese, he is only a trapper now. Ba'teese, he had swear he never again stand beside a sick bed But you——" and he turned swiftly, a broken smile playing about his lipe—"you, mon ami, you—you look like my Pierre'"

With a sudden impulse, he swerved about the bed and sat down beside the sick man "Ba'tiste——" he smiled plaintively—"like to talk about Pierre—and Julienne, my wife Even though eet hurt"

Barry could think only in terms of triteness.

"Have they been gone long?"

The big man counted on his fingers

"One—two—t'ree year Before that—bon'" He kissed his fingers airily. 'Old Ba'teese, he come down from Montreal, with his Julienne and his Pierre—in his arm, so. And, so happy! Then, Jacques Robinette come too, with his petite Medaine—"

"That's the girl who was here?"

"Ah, oui. I am 'Maieu Docteur I look after the sick for—twenty—thirty mile. Jacques buy land Ev'where—the pine and spruce, it was Jacques. By'm'by, he go on and leave Medaine alone And Ba'teese believe some day she love Pierre and Pierre love her and—"

Another silence. At last:

"And then war came. My Pierre, he eighteen, but he go Ba'teese want him to go. Julienne, she say nothing—she cry at night. Ba'teese was big. And Julienne say to him, "You, too—you go. You may save a life. And Ba'teese went."

"To France?"

Ba'tiste bowed his head.

"Long time Ba'teese look for his Pierre. Then—one night—in the cathedral at St. Menshould. I find heem. But Pierre not know his pere. He not answer Ba'teese when he call 'Pierre! Pierre!' Here, and here, and here—" the big man pointed to his breast and face and arms—"was the shrapnel. He sigh in my arms—then he is gone. And by'm'by Ba'teese come home—and find that."

He pointed out into the shadows beneath the pines.

"She had died?"

"Died!" The man't face had gone suddenly purple. His eyes were glaring, his hands upraised and clutched. "No! Murder! Murder, mon ami! Murder! Lost Wing—he Medaine's Indian—he find her—so! In a heap on the floor and a bullet through' her brain. And the money we save, the ten thousan' dollar—eet is gone! Murder!"

A shudder went over the young man on the bed. His face blanched. His lips lost their color. For a moment, he stared with dazed, unseeing eyes, at last to turn dully at the sharp, questioning voice of the trapper

"Murder—you know murder?"

There was a long moment of silence. Houston shook himself, as if to throw some hateful, vicious thing from him, and turned, with a parrying question:

"Did you ever find out who did it?"

"No But Ba'teese always look for things—that were in the deed-box. Then he switched again. "Why you look so funny? Hugh? Why you get pale—? Why you act like that when I talk about murder"

The gaze of Ba'tiste Renaud was strained as he asked the question, his manner tense, excited.

"Maybe you know the reason already—through Thayer. But if you don't—Ba'tiste, how much of it do you mean when you say you are a man's friend"

"Ba'teese may joke," came quietly, "but Ba'teese no lie. You look like my Pierre—you help where it has been lonesome You are my friend'"

"Then I know you are not going to ask me for something that hurts in telling And at least, I can give you my word of honor that it isn't because of my conscience!"

"Eet is enough'" came abruptly "I like you—I not ask. You look like my Pierre—who could do no wrong. You have trouble? Ba'teese help"

"I've had plenty of that, in the last two years," came quietly "I think I've got plenty ahead. What do you know about Thayer?"

"He no good He have narrow eyes Beside, he made love to Medaine'"

Barry laughed

"Evidently that's a sore spot with you, Ba'tiste"

"If my Pierre had live, she would have marry him And to have M'sieu Thayer take is place? Mebbe—" he said it hopefully, "mebbe

"But you don't know the story behind it all, Ba'tiste."

you like Medaine, huh?"

"I do! She's pretty, Ba'tiste"

"Mebbe you make love?"

"I can't make love to anybody, Ba'tiste I haven't the privileges of most young fellows I m a little—hampered by circumstance I've—besides, if I ever do marry, it won't be for love. There's a girl back east who says she cares for me, and who simply has taken it for granted that I think the same way about her. She stood by me—in some trouble"

"You dam'-fool," he said. "Buy 'em present Thank 'em, merci beaucoup But don' marry 'em unless you love 'em"

"But you don't know the story behind it all, Ba'tiste. I got in some trouble It broke my father's heart—and his confidence in me. He—he died shortly afterward"

"And you—was it your fault?"

"Ba'tiste, believe this it wasn't He left a will—with stipulations. I was to have the land he owned out here at Empire Lake, and the flume site leading down the right side of Hawk Creek to the mill. Someone else owns the other side of the lake."

"Oui Medaine Robinette'

"Father wouldn't leave me the mill He seemed to have a notion that I'd sell it all off The mill is rented to me The land is mine, and I can do everything but actually dispose of it But on top of that comes another twist: if I haven't developed the business within five years into double what it was at the peak of its best development, back goes everything into a trust fund, out of which I am to have a hundred dollars a month, nothing more.

"I'm out here, Ba'tiste, to find out why, in spite of the fact that I've worked day and night now for a year and a half, I can't get it' Something or someone is blocking me, and I'm going to find out what and who it is' I think I know one man—Thayer I don't care what happens to me personally. I'm going to make good my father's memory"

"Bon—good'" Old Ba'tiste leaned over the foot of the bed "My Pierre—he would talk like that Bon! Now—what is it you look for?"

"I don't know. I've got one lead—as soon as I'm able to get into town How big a telegraph office is there at Tabernacle?"

"How big?" Ba'tiste laughed Eet is about the sies of the—peanut"

Nemo Corsets

ESPECIALLY RECOMMENDED FOR

Stout Women

NEMO Corsets Are Indorsed by

Dr. Adolf Lorenz

Professor of Orthopedics, University of Vienna, Austria

Dr. Lorenz is now licensed to practise in New York, Illinois and Texas. A letter from Dr. Lorenz to Kops Bros., manufacturers of NEMO Corsets, is herewith reproduced:

PROFESSOR DR. ADOLF LORENZ
Reichsratstrasse 21
Vienna, I.
Austria

New York, N. Y., Dec. 30, 1921.

My Dear Mr. Kops:

I have carefully examined the Nemo Corsets you submitted to me and find that the appliances which are attached to them are in various ways most ingeniously constructed for the purpose of giving relief, support and protection to the contained abdominal and pelvic organs.

These corsets are of great importance to women, due to their prophylactic, curative and corrective properties, providing the lesions have not become chronic.

I consider that the most valuable qualities in these corsets are the combined services of producing symmetrical properties, at the same time giving effective physical relief and comfort to women suffering with organic diseases to which the modern woman is prone.

It is the experience of the medical profession in general that mechanical devices which have to be prescribed for alleviative or curative purposes will not be used by women if they conflict with or destroy the natural symmetry of their figures.

My study of the construction of Nemo Corsets has convinced me that their hygienic features blend harmoniously with a woman's natural form.

I specially recommend some of these ingeniously constructed corsets for those women who have relaxed, stretched and weak abdominal muscles or walls, nephroptosis (floating kidney), ptosed stomach and ptosis, or prolapse of any abdominal or pelvic organ, while other devices in Nemo Corsets are of Immeasurable value to the stout woman with the abnormally large abdomen, which is heavy with adipose tissue.

It seems to me that these corsets are particularly beneficial to that large class of women who are actively engaged in work which requires much physical exertion.

PROF. ADOLF LORENZ.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.—Romans 12:21.

Life is to be considered happy, not in warding off evil, but in the acquisition of good: and this we should seek for by some form of employment or by reflection.—Cicero.

—Edward Rowland Sill.

HOW ABOUT IT, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE?

There is a little town in Nebraska which was put in the "Communities Hall of Fame" in a magazine sketch recently by reason of its unfailing courtesy to visiting candidates for office.

The name of the town escapes us, but other readers may recall the sketch. For several generations in the town no candidate had been permitted to arrive "unhonored and unsung" at the local passenger station. The gracious little custom of receiving every man offering himself for public service with a distinguishing courtesy, regardless of party, platform or political record, had been initiated by a fine old gentleman of the bench in the days long gone by, and had never been relinquished.

The custom is one which no town or city would lose by copying. In Wichita Falls the past week two candidates for an important public office have arrived on dates set beforehand and have carried their own grips to the service car. Each candidate has many local supporters—though that fact is beside the question. And neither candidate was surprised or disappointed at the non-appearance of a reception committee—which is also beside the question.

The main thought is that a town, as much as an individual, needs to be courteous. And it needs, like an individual, to have some established tenets of graciousness to live by, for the simple reason that the habit of observing certain definite little amenities of civilized life tends to establish that habit into the character of the community. It is not so much for the sake of the candidate, who knows at the offset about what he may expect in the matter of reception, but for the sake of the town. Courtesy is one of the greatest refining influences in the world, and one of the greatest gainers. And what it does for human beings in the business and social world it does for communities and metropoli. Its reputation for graciousness in the treatment of its candidates for office has put the little Nebraska town on the map.

What's the matter with Wichita Falls getting on the map of her own self-respect by some such custom? The town is certainly big enough and the body of citizenship progressive enough to spare a varying reception committee of two or three to meet the small requirements of the local situation.

THE UNIVERSITY AND PARRISH.

Of those many who loved and honored Lucian Parrish—and their name was legion—none loved or honored him more than those who, knowing him first as a giant of the athletic field and as a leader among fellow-students at the State University, and who were therefore able to follow his later career with added interest and understanding.

The current number of the Alcalde, published by the former students of the University, has a brief but eloquent account of the days in which Lucian Parrish first showed that in him were the elements of greatness. It is too often true that those who shine in college activities do not measure up, in after life, to the expectations they arouse; Parrish was the exception. The Alcalde says of him:

"Many people who love the University hold to the view that its strongest claim on the support of all the people is the fact that it is a part of the public free school system of Texas, and that here, as nearly as possible, the boy and the girl of limited means is on an equal footing with the sons and daughters of the wealthy. That this statement is approximately true has been verified in hundreds of instances. One of the most striking examples in the entire history of the University was Lucian W. Parrish, unhappily cut down in the very prime of his life, and possibly on the threshold of a great public career.

"It was never any embarrassement to Lucian Parrish that he was a poor boy, living in B Hall, dressed plainly and eating a Spartan diet, when others among his classmates lived expensively and dressed in high-priced, tailor-made clothes. Lucian became prominent, not because of expensive habits nor of fine dress. He was a man of wonderful physique; studious habits; sound character, and of indomitable purpose. Before he left the University, he was the recognized leader of the entire student body.

"His untimely death has cast a shadow over the entire University community. He has left those of us who love him unspeakably and unutterably sad. We can say that the University of Texas, in our judgment, was created to give opportunity to such men as Lucian Parrish, and we thank God for Lucian and others like him, who are the chief glory of this institution."

The only thing certain about April weather is its uncertainty.

The early bird doesn't get the sleep.

MAKING WALL STREET RESPECTABLE.

Members of the New York Stock Exchange are considering a plan to put that organization and Wall Street as a whole, in a better light before the public, by advertising.

"The public has set up a fabulous monster named 'Wall Street' to be the scapegoat for all its half-understood economic troubles—to be cursed as the cause of everything from unemployment to the present coal strike," says the committee's report on the subject. "The people hate Wall street, the demagogue fans the flame for his own selfish purposes, and this fierce fire of bitterness is not only a menace to our financial institutions but definitely retards all industrial and commercial progress.

"What is the cause of this blind, unreasoning hatred of what is personified by the catch phrase 'Wall street'?

"It may be given in one word—ignorance. What has ever been done to inform me—and ninety-odd million voters like me—of the functions of the New York Stock Exchange and other parts of our financial system, of their value and services in the maintenance of our business life, of how and why and when and where you accomplish these things?"

Wall street should be able to tell an interesting and instructive story. As its committee says, there is much of its work that the public does not understand, and misunderstanding leads to blame, readily enough. It is something noteworthy that any of its members should even admit that it is any of the public's business what it does or how it does it.

But if there is any force that gives Wall street an aspect of respectability, that force is publicity.

THE SENATORIAL CONTEST.

The Times finds remarkable indifference among local voters as to the senatorial contest. Following the tragic removal of the candidate who would have carried this county overwhelmingly, it develops that the average voter had no second choice.

Several candidates have spoken here, have presented their platforms and views, have gained a few votes; but the fact remains that the greater part of the local support that was intended for Lucian Parrish is now, with him gone, unplaced.

Wichita county will cast 6,000 or 7,000 votes next July. It is a slice of support worth going after. And most of it is considerably up in the air on the senatorial race just now.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES.

There are very few things that cannot be taught by mail, if one is to give credence to the advertisements that throng the pages of current magazines. Correspondence instruction courses in practically all professions and lines of business, in dancing, playing baseball, getting fat, getting thin, not to mention the arts and science themselves are offered on almost every page.

Probably many of the courses offered are of doubtful value; none should be purchased without careful scrutiny and investigation. Yet if one can separate the wheat from the chaff, he will undoubtedly acquire much worth-while mental pabulum.

Learning things by mail is far from being the best way to learn. But it is better than not learning at all.

Rivers and creeks are having their ups and downs.

Busyness is business.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STUDYING OUR LESSONS.

We thought that we were going on one grand holiday when we were handed our diplomas and people clapped their hands as we left the stage.

But now we have learned that we were just entering school, that in a much larger sense we had to go right to work studying our lessons the same as before—but in a more serious manner than ever.

We have to keep reverting to the earliest hours of childhood, that we may not become too artificial.

A friend wrote me a letter the other day. She was talking about her life work, which is to make children happier. This is what she wrote, and it was so true and simple that I want to quote the words to you:

"There's no taste in all the world as downright, as fresh, as exacting, as uncompromising as a child's. They want what they want and they don't want what they don't want. We call them whimsical and ourselves definite. Nothing of the sort. They are the definite ones. We are the ones who take substitutes."

We ought to walk into a child's world oftener and go to school all over again.

Every day brings its fresh lesson.

Do not lay it aside until "tomorrow"—for tomorrow will bring a lesson of its own, as new as that which is given you for today.

Grow as you learn!

Let that which comes to you pass through you—and beyond you. Know that for which you strive and sweat. Pass your tests—both material and spiritual

And eliminate your conceits and pet theories. Build your castles to live in—and to invite others to enjoy.

Study to live!

JUST FOLKS

TOIL.

'Tis time to get the rake and hoe
And plant the posies, row by row,
To bend your back above the spade,
For thus the marigolds are made.

The unattended ground will stay
A dreary waste of yellow clay,
No rose will blossom in the sun
Unless the heavy work is done.

God smiles upon the garden fair
And paints it with his colors rare,
But not one bloom shall grace the soil
Which does not get devotion's toil.

The wish for loveliness is not
Enough to build a garden spot,
The pansies and the phlox are made
By constant service with the spade.

In June the roses bloom and nod
For him who bravely breaks the clod.
But he who will not dig today
Shall have no marigolds in May.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

An immense weighing machine, so delicately adjusted that it immediately detects the withdrawal of a single steel rivet from a 25,000-ton steamship

This is the latest achievement by Uncle Sams bureau of standards It is described in scientific circles as "the most precise work of its kind in many years"

Man is getting the art of measurement down finely when, in comparing a couple of one-pound weights, he can detect a difference of a millionth.

Yet in that most important form of measurement—determining relative values of human energy expended on different things—we are making very little progress.

Discover how to measure human energy and the relative value of what it produces, and you have the key to the just distribution of wealth.

INCOMES.

Speaking of overhead excess baggage The census bureau adds up and reports that the value of all American farm products raised in 1919 was $21,425,623,614.

The income of all Americans combined in the same year was $65,900,000,000, or over three times the farmers' income.

The farmer, for actually producing everything that feeds and clothes us, got only a third of the pie.

Out of each $3 farmer gets $1, city man $2.

PIGS.

M carriers early in May will tak a census of pigs to find out how many there are in America The two legged kind will not be included.

The postman will find about 57,000,000 head of swine on the farms.

Along with these are some 36,000,000 sheep, 19,000,000 horses, 5,400,000 mules, 24,000,000 milk cows and 41,000,000 other cattle

Civilization advances, but animals still are doing an infinite service for us. Treat them kindly, remembering that in relation to animal life we are parasites.

PETRIFIED.

Petrified trunk of a fern tree, 20 feet long, is dug out of a coal mine in Alberta, Canada

The find recalls that subtropical climate once existed north of the United States.

Climate does change, though t...s particular instance took millions of years, according to scientists.

We live just long enough to get a glimpse of our infinitesimal unimportance in eternity Earth will cover up and destroy all traces of everything we build.

SWARM.

New York and London carry on a newspaper argument, each claiming it is the world's largest city.

Greater London, in a radius of 18 miles from Charing Cross, has a population of 7,476,168. This is 344,500 less than live within 19 miles of City Hall, New York.

Some people never get it through their heads that the size of a town has nothing to do with its value and real importance.

MOVIES.

German moving picture industry during the last year has increased its capitalization from 93,751,000 marks to 319,718,000 marks.

This looks as if Germany is getting ready to flood the world with films.

A check-up, though, will show that the increase has not kept pace with currency depreciation, and that the working capital really has shrunk, measured in American dollars. Price hoax.

Texas Viewpoints

Houston Chronicle: Thomas L. Blanton is something of a disturber, perhaps, and inclined to make necessary noise, but all that does not vindicate the petty allowances to congressmen about which he has recently begun to chirp. They are not graft, of course, because they come within the law, and no congressman can justly be called a grafter for availing himself of them. At the same time they represent something of a gratuity, or covered-up pay, or whatever you prefer, that hardly seems in accord with plain open dealing. If a congressman actually needs $375 worth of stationery, he should be given it. The fact that many congressmen drew their stationery allowance out in cash, or use it to buy other things, casts doubt on this need. Whatever it costs a congressman to travel between his home and Washington should be returned to him out of the public treasury, but why blanket the amount? Why make it so much a mile, regardless of the cost, and why be so enthusiastic to exceed the cost? If $7,500 a year is not enough for a congressman to live on, give him more, but give it to him straight. Don't cover it up and conceal it in a mass of provisions which nobody can understand, and which blinds the people to the amount he actually receives, or more accurately, perhaps, which he can receive. The people are not particularly disturbed by the idea that congressmen may be drawing down pocket knives, or toilet sets, or fancy writing paper for their wives, or a little extra change now and then. The government can afford the expense, and probably most congressmen need such little luxuries. But the idea of beating about the bush, when it is unnecessary, of going to so much trouble to rig up a system that is useless, irks the people. They have no objection to paying all congressmen are worth, or even more, if it takes more to feed and clothe congressmen, but they would prefer that it be called "salary" at all times and to the full amount. If congressmen are to be allowed stationery, let it be stationery, and nothing else. If they are to be allowed traveling expenses, let the amount fit the cost, not as a matter of general estimate, but as represented by tickets and Pullman checks and cab fares, etc.

Abilene Reporter: After a dose of the sour-faced Margot Asquith, America will welcome Lady Astor with open arms and understanding mind. She is of America, American. She is a Virginian, with all the charm and vivacity that the term implies. She is beautiful, accomplished, the mother of five or six children, the first woman to sit in the house of parliament—and she is sensible. She remarked that Margot was "unique," which was putting it mildly. America likes visitors like Lady Astor, and is charmed by them; some sort of barrier ought to be erected against the Margot type.

Yestidday pop had a little packidge wen he came home, saying to ma, After all theres nuthing like a old fashion strate razer that you can strop in the good old fashion way.

You dont meen to say youve gone and got a reguler razer that you can cut yourself with? sed ma, and pop sed, You can cut yourself with a carving set, but you dont. A customer of mine gave me this razer, he brawt it over from Germinny.

But Willyum, jest because somebody gave it to you thats no reason you haff to indanger your life with it, sed ma, and pop sed, My 4 fathers dident have their razers made safe for them and I never herd of eny of them killing themselves in the mist of a shave.

But my goodniss Willyum they had years of practice, sed ma, and pop sed, So will I. Im going to begin tonite after suppir.

Wich he did, locking himself in the bath room and wen he came out agen he had one long scratch on each side of his face and 2 short ones on his chin and a middle size one on one ear, ma saying, Now, there, wat did I tell you, there.

Ware" sed pop, and ma sed, The idder of cutting yourself all up jest because somebody gave you a strate razer, if somebody gave you a quart of poison would you drink it jest so as not to waist it?

It depends on wat label was on it, sed pop, and ma sed, I never herd of sutch a thing, if somebody gave you a stick of dynamite would you put a match to it?

Wats this sipposed to be, simpathy" sed pop, and ma sed, If somebody gave you a mad dog would you let it bite you?

Im going to the movies to drownd my sorrows, sed pop.

Wich him and me did.

ERYSIPELAS

The germ of erysipelas is the ground hog among germs. It gets beneath the skin through a cut or scratch and burrows its way around.

The erysipelas germ locates just beneath the skin in the coarser tissues which, since it is so loose and full of open spaces, permits the germ to pass from place to place unhindered.

The local symptom of the presence of the germ is the reddening, thickening, raising and heating of the skin. Whether the patient suffers generally and has a fever, impaired digestion and delirium, depends on the condition and sensitiveness of the individual.

The usual location of erysipelas is the face. It is the most dangerous part of the body on which to have the disease because the germs may wander into the passages communicating with the brain and set up meningitis (brain fever) or some other fatal brain trouble.

Sometimes facial erysipelas is caused by an infection of the tonsils passing upward along the mucous membrane and out through the nose to the tissues underlying the skin of the cheeks. Another common cause is the scratching of the face with dirty finger nails.

The germs cannot break through healthy skin, so to take the disease from some one suffering from it or from infected objects, one must either cut or prick the skin which permits the germ to go beneath it, or one must breathe the germ in against broken or diseased skin of mouth, nose or throat.

For people under 40 the mortality from this disease is low, but for those over this age it is increasingly fatal with the years.

The disease is exceedingly contagious. Therefore, everything that comes in contact with the sick person should be carefully sterilized before being used by other people.

One of the chief dangers of this disease is the fact that few people realize this contagiousness and they therefore allow the patient to pass freely about the house, handle all sorts of articles, breathe into the faces of the family and eat at the table with the rest of the family.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is—Environs.

It's pronounced—en-vie-runz, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—suburbs, outlying towns, the districts surrounding a city.

It comes from—French "environ," about.

It's used like this—"It is pleasanter to live in the environs of a great city than in the center of the business district."

$1200 PER MONTH CUT FROM SALARIES OF CITY OFFICIALS

ALL DEPARTMENTS EXCEPT POLICE ARE REDUCED AT MONDAY'S SESSION.

NEW PLUMBING BOARD IS NAMED FOR YEAR

New City Prosecutor Is Recommended to Council But No Action Is Taken.

The city council wielded a wicked old pruning knife late Monday. When the aldermen had finished and wiped the dripping gore from the trusty weapon, $1,200 had been lopped from monthly salaries of city officials, practically every department being sliced some

The only department to escape was the police department, and the council apparently agreed with Commissioner Fitts that all possible cutting had already been done there The members of the force are now drawing from $115 to $140, most being at the smaller figure.

Several cuts in the city engineer's department may result in some resignations. City Engineer Rugely told the aldermen; it is thought that most of the other cuts will "stand up." The council did not confine its activities to salary reductions, abolishing several minor jobs altogether and making combinations

A new city plumbing board was appointed at the session, consisting of City Engineer Rugeley, City Plumbing Inspector Moore, City Physician Lowry, George W. Winburne Jr. and W. D Griffin. The last two named are local plumbers

Duplicate Meter Readings.

The council passed finally the ordinance requiring public service corporations to leave duplicate meter readings at the homes of consumers.

Repair of the pavement at the corner of Tenth and Lamar, where a rough place has been the bane of autoists for many weeks, was ordered by the council on recommendation of Street Commissioner Clifford. The repairs will cost about $450 The council also discussed, but did not act finally upon, a paving petition covering the 1100 block on Austin, and connecting with the Eleventh street paving, the city's paving funds are running low, it was stated, and the matter was held up temporarily.

Police Commissioner Fitts recommended the appointment of E H Gipson as city prosecutor at a salary of $175 per month. No action was taken on the recommendation at Monday's meeting.

Water Finances.

Utilities Commissioner Burton Stayton brought up the question of the alleged indebtedness of the water department to the general fund, which debt has been set up by reason of the fact that the interest and sinking fund charges against the department had been paid out of the city treasury instead of out of the department's earnings. Mr. Stayton, who inherited this controversy from Judge Bonner, contended that the charter explicitly provided that a tax should be levied for interest and sinking fund for water department bonds but that the charter did not say in express terms that such payments should be made from earnings The water earnings, he pointed out, had been used for badly needed extensions, benefiting the city as a whole

The recent financial statement of the city showed the water department owing about $130,000 for interest and sinking fund No action was taken on the matter Monday night, but other members of the council indicated they were not in accord with Commissioner Stayton's view of the charges.

Reductions Numerous.

In making salary reductions, the council cut the pay of department heads as follows: Electrical inspector, $225 to $175; plumbing inspector, $175 to $150; tax assessor-collector, $290 to $250; city clerk, $290 to $250; street superintendent, $240 to $2 50; park superintendent, $250 to $200; water plant superintendent, $250 to $200; city sanitary officer, $400 to $325; assistant city engineer, $275 to $250.

In addition, subordinate employes were nearly all reduced, and several were released from the city's service, the aggregate of the reductions being $1,205.

COURT ISSUES A WRIT FOR "BODY OF SMALL CHILD"

Judge P. A. Martin at 5 o'clock Monday evening granted a writ of habeas corpus to L. Taylor to secure a five year old child from Clarence Cox, who lives on the road toward Petrolia.

According to the petition Clarence Cox, the father of the child, and the child's mother, who is a daughter of Mr. Taylor, are separated and under the terms of the divorce decree the father is entitled to have the child 30 days out of each year.

The petition alleged that the father has had the child his allotted period of time and now refused to give up the child The writ was sued out and granted by the court Attorneys, however, state that the father voluntarily turned over the child before he was served with the court's order.

MR. AND MRS. W. F. GEORGE TO BUILD COUNTRY HOME NORTH OF IOWA PARK

Work will start in the near future on a handsome country home for Mr and Mrs. W. F George of Iowa Park, who will build on their 30-acre tract just north of that community.

Plans, which are being prepared by Voelcker and Dixon of this city call for a ten-room, two-story brick house, which promises to be one of the most attractive in this section.

"MESSAGE FROM HELL" IS SUBJECT OF DR. SCARBOROUGH

"There are 260 chapters of scripture in the New Testament, and out of this number, 234 speak of hell Even Jesus Himself spoke many times regarding this place, and any man who says there is no hell, literally says the Son of God is a liar In this story concerning Lazarus and the rich man, both lived in the same world until death, then there was separation, not because one was rich and the other poor, but because one was saved and the other lost. Unbelief leads to hell without fail.

"In this the only message ever sent from hell, Luke, 16th chapter, we find that death cannot destroy the memory of the soul. Throughout eternity there will be the consciousness of your rejection of the Son of God and your soul's endless condemnation In this life, God says go to the Christian and come to the lost In eternity the order of command is the reverse. What will He say to you?"

This was taken from the convincing sermon of Dr. S Arborough, preached Monday night at the First Baptist church, one of the most forceful sermons of the revival thus far. The main auditorium was crowded with people, many of whom were from other churches of the city

Mrs. E. W. Enos and Mrs. J M Schaefer sang a duet Tuesday night Dr. Scarborough will have for his subject, "Christians Warming Themselves at the Devil's Fire." He uses the scripture for the basis of all his messages.

Tuesday morning at the 10 o'clock service the evangelist used as his theme, "Personal Evangelism" He stressed the fact that every Christian should not only obey God's call, but obey promptly INTERVENTION IN REDISTRICTING TEST FAVORED BY C. OF C.

TO CO-OPERATE WITH OTHER ORGANIZATIONS IN TAKING LEGAL ACTION.

SENATORIAL MEASURE MAY BE INCLUDED ALSO

Effort to Knock Out Two-Year Postponement May Be Made By West Texans.

A decision to intervene in the suit to test the legislative redistricting bill was reached Tuesday morning at a meeting of chamber of commerce directors, who also voted to include, if found feasible, a test of the senatorial redistricting bill

The organization will co-operate with the West Texas chamber of commerce and other interested organizations in testing the validity of the bill, and Judge R. E. Huff was asked to take the matter actively in hand on behalf of the local body.

Mr. Huff, who said he brought the matter before the directors not because of any personal interest but because of the importance to the community of securing additional representation if possible, pointed out that the manner in which the pending suit was brought leaves some question as to its sincerity, and that unless some one directly interested steps in there is danger of a result adverse to this district.

The possibility of securing at the same time, a test of the senatorial redistricting bill, on the ground that the postponement until 1924 of its becoming effective is unconstitutional, was also mentioned by Mr Huff, who said he thought there was some chance of knocking out the postponing feature and making the bill effective this year. Wichita Falls at present in a district with about 50 other counties Under the bill she is in a district with only eight others

During their discussion of the matter, the directors talked of material for filing the legislative places under the new bill, and C H Clark was informally urged to offer himself Mr. Clark was urged to make the race two years ago, but declined and indicated that he would decline again this time

In intervening in the suit, the action will be taken in the name of some individual in some county affected by the redistricting bill The West Texas chamber of commerce representing many of the counties directly affected by the bill will probably work with the local organization.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF PAT CARRIGAN POST IS PLANNED FOR WEDNESDAY

An important meeting of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion is scheduled for 8 o'clock Wednesday night. At this meeting preparations for the aerial carnival which starts Saturday will be completed

All indications point to a big and successful affair and the Legion workers are expecting big crowds

Officers request that every member who can possibly be present attend Wednesday night's meeting

CALOMEL USERS TAKE AWFUL RISK

Very Next Dose of Treacherous Drug May Start Terrible Salivation.

The next dose of calomel you take may salivate you. It may shock your liver or start bone necrosis Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—adv.

The First Day of the Series of Lessons in

DENNISON'S CREPE CRAFT

A BIG SUCCESS

The opening day was very successful, however, we were not prepared to handle the large number of ladies that were on hand to start the first lessons.

For those who were disappointed on the opening day and for those who did not come down on account of the inclement weather, please remember that we will continue these lessons until every one has taken advantage of the opportunity to learn to make the many beautiful things that can be made out of Dennison materials.

It will be a good idea to come in the mornings, if convenient, and inspect the work and select your materials while the store is not crowded.

Lessons every afternoon 2 to 5 30 Saturday 9 to 3 00. Special instruction to teachers and children.

"CITY COWBOY" TO BE CONTESTANT IN ROUNDUP NEXT WEEK

"When the contestants dash out into the area in the opening performance of the roundup which will be staged at the ball park May 3, 4 and 5, there is one contestant whom, according to reports, will gain almost instant recognition by his clever work," says a roundup announcement.

"This contestant is Buck Stewart of Fort Worth, and Buck modestly admits that he is a city cowboy; that is, he has never been a regular cowpuncher on any of the real large ranches, and although just old enough to carry a poll tax receipt, it is estimated that Buck has helped to handle a half million head of cattle and more than a quarter million of horses and mules Stewart has practically been raised at Fort Worth stockyards and every regular shipper to the Fort Worth market knows Buck. He has worked for years on the cattle yards and around the horse and mule barns and it is estimated that the horses Stewart has ridden in government inspection alone would be sufficient to mount a regiment of cavalry.

"In fact, conservative figures are to the effect that the number of wild horses Buck Stewart has ridden during his life will average more than two a week since he was born, but aside from being a bucking horse rider, Buck is one of the cleverest trick riders in the state He is shipping his own trained riding horse here for the roundup and is after the scalp of one Tommie Kirnan, present world's champion trick rider"

LAWTON OFFICERS PAY $600 REWARD TO 4 LOCAL POLICE

"You didn't make any mistake" said officers from Lawton Tuesday morning when they saw the two young men arrested early Monday at the river bridge, in possession of a stolen car.

The four local officers who effected the capture divided $600 among them Tuesday, that much of the $1,100 reward being brought here by the two Oklahoma officers Officers Glenn, Davis, Belcher and Shook participated in the reward.

The two Lawton officers left at noon with the two prisoners, who, according to them, are almost certainly McAlester bound

"SILENT COPS" OF NEW DESIGN WILL BE INSTALLED SOON

The "silent cops" in the business district will be replaced shortly by traffic markers of a different design, the council having arranged with I. H Roberts to install 12 guides of a type which has been tried successfully in other cities.

The new markers will be of concrete, raised only a few inches from the ground, and painted red Drivers will be expected to go around these signs, but in case of a threatened accident, an automobile could readily pass over the sign without damage

SPUDDERS HAVE THIRTEEN HARD GAMES TO PLAY ON FIRST 1922 ROAD TRIP

BY PAUL W. LARKIN

If [illegible] thirteen games on the road this trip [illegible] Wichita Falls leading [illegible] the [illegible] Fort Worth last night [illegible] about my hurlers but I [illegible] that the rest of the boys will pick their way to victory in [illegible] give us the edge [illegible] Should we be fortunate enough to encounter a few hard drives I am confident the pitchers will [illegible] through but unless we do the [illegible] will have to pound their way out. Give us an even break on the road and I know we will take two thirds of our games at home. That will win a [illegible]

Both the Spudders and Panthers heaved sighs of relief yesterday when the final game was postponed. Snow piled until the last minute before reaching a decision but on his last [illegible] the ball yard found the playing field in worse condition than ever before. Though it didn't rain enough after 2 o'clock to prevent play it would have been suicide to send the players onto such a slippery field and many sore arms would have resulted from the cold weather.

The Spudders will meet only the northern clubs on this trip but these three are as tough as any in the circuit. The Cats are a hard club to beat any time. They haven't as formidable an aggregation as last season but they've got the spirit which can't be downed. Their offensive strength is just as good as it was last season judging from the two games played here but their defense has been greatly weakened. They have practically the same hurling staff as in 1921 with the exception of Johns but Wilcey Moore seems to have replaced him in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. The Cat hurlers didn't show much against the Spudders however. The Salmon kids saw five of them in two days and each was bolted freely. Though Joe Pate won his game it was not due to any great hurling on his part. Enough runs were scored off him to win nine out of ten games.

Sluggers Keep Word

The local sluggers declared at the beginning of the season that they would get a half dozen runs for the pitchers every day and while that is improbable seven days a week they have done it the majority of times. But ten dozen runs won't be enough to win unless their own hurlers can keep the opposition from scoring more.

After their game in Fort Worth the Spudders jump to Shreveport for four games. They will open the 1922 season with the Gassers in Louisiana Wednesday. The Spudders closed up the Gassers series here but were exceedingly fortunate in a couple of games. Billy Smith's crew has gotten away to a terrific start but has collected [illegible] ball players to lose many more games. Even a worm will turn and the Gassers are due. The Spudders have their work cut out for them in the Gasser series.

From Shreveport the locals come back to Dallas for four contests. Wichitans already know that Jim Galloway and his Giants are one of the hardest teams in the loop to stop. Dallas is breaking out with great pitchers and the Salmites will have an [illegible] batch of left handers to overcome there.

Fort Worth will be the next stop and then the fun is bound to fly again. Unless the unforeseen happens those two clubs should be battling for the top rung again and battle they will.

By the time the Spudders get back to Fort Worth Salm may have a couple more hurlers to shoot at the Cats. He expects to receive something worth while any day after May 1 from Pittsburgh. He has not given up all hopes of getting Hollingsworth but he is banking on Sheriff Blake who was with Summa in Rochester last year. Honest dope says that Blake can win easily in this league as he was one of the best in the International last year. Pittsburgh holds him at present.

Salm plans to [illegible] Al White regularly at [illegible] Al soon [illegible] to try him to share bits [illegible] of all the [illegible] will [illegible] as he's to go [illegible] the [illegible]

McDonald and Miller Star

Pr[illegible] features of [illegible] far the season has [illegible] around world of [illegible] Jake M[illegible] by the so two [illegible] the [illegible] or while [illegible] put off [illegible] faster than [illegible] on the [illegible] from [illegible] who saw [illegible] ago know [illegible] playing as he saw [illegible] has brought [illegible] worthy [illegible]

Fred Hoak at first has been playing [illegible] but still [illegible] $600 he is worth to [illegible] he is worth to [illegible] look out.

Shorty Adams has [illegible] up a veritable [illegible] at short and [illegible] the leading shortstop league [illegible] with [illegible] the field. Where Al [illegible] the power he is [illegible] has a mystery but he [illegible] on the nose and [illegible] dangerous pinch hitter [illegible]

Homer Summa's work [illegible] sun garden has been all flawless. Summa came here [illegible] as a star and has lived up to all his reputation. He may have a weakness somewhere either at the bat or in the field but it has not been discovered in Wichita Falls yet.

O'Brien has performed most creditably in center but has been relieved by Bescher when the opposition used a southpaw. Ray is supposed to be weak against southpaws but Bescher hasn't showed anything startling against them yet and it's a cinch that Bescher isn't to be compared with O'Brien in the field. Pope's a great base runner but that is the only respect in which he is superior to O'Brien.

A Visiting Scribe's Views

The writer called attention to the fact Monday that Frank Kitchens was handed one of the rawest deals ever accorded a player in his home town. Pop Boone, a Fort Worth scribe who was here with the Panthers evidently feels as the writer does judging from the following which he sent back to his sheet:

Saw something sorta sad today. Saw a stand full of rabid fugs rise up on their hind legs and yell for the derricking of the grand old Pop Kitchens. I ain't partial to Kitch because they call him Pop but to me he's one of the greatest forces in what success Spudder nines have had in the last two races. I argued last year that he hadn't been forced to catch every game all year and finally went down under the strain. The Spudders would have [illegible] further than they did. He's been here for two years and I say three thousand fiends united in a great chorus. Give us Bishoff. And we all joined in with 'em and sang Give Him Bishoff.

Kitch isn't whomping the ball while Bishoff is [illegible] but little [illegible] when it comes to splitting [illegible] behind that old plate and handling a pitcher there is no difference between 'em than there is in their hitting [illegible]

OBSTACLE GOLF IS THE VERY LATEST IN SPORT

Just seems as if the golf enthusiasts never get enough of the game.

At Pasadena Cal. is a novel and tricky course that affords plenty of amusement for golfers.

It is a compact nine hole course that covers only 100 square yards. However in that short stretch of turf may be found an assortment of obstacles that would make the most hardened golfer cuss.

In the upper left the golfer is shown trying to lift the ball from a brick tee through the barrel bunker.

In the upper right the golfer must drive off a brick tee and get through the wire hoop with the small spheroid.

In the center it is necessary to direct the ball over the miniature trestle and on to the next obstacle.

The new game is known as obstacle golf and is to perfect the golfer in his short game a weak feature of most golfers play.

DISTRICT COURT CONVENES AT HASKELL ON MONDAY

HASKELL, TEXAS, April 24.—District court of this the 39th judicial district convened Monday morning at Haskell with Judge W. R. Chapman of Anson and Joe Randall, prosecuting attorney, on hand for business.

The grand jury was empanelled and instructed to look after violations of the law.

The most important case to come up in this term of court is the State of Texas vs. H. J. Whitaker, charged with killing of Ralph Bischofhousen, deputy sheriff, last June.

HOME RUNS PLAY PROMINENT PART IN MONDAY GAMES

NEW YORK, April 25.—Kenneth Williams slugging left fielder of the St. Louis Browns aided the Browns in downing Detroit and maintaining a tie with Cleveland for second place.

Wally Pipp's sock in the eleventh with Devormer on base gave the Yankees a decision over the Philadelphia Athletics and incidentally their sixth straight victory. Carl Mays was hit hard but fast support saved him when the Mackmen threatened.

One big inning in which Shinner's timely hit brought home the winning tallies enabled the Giants to nose out the Philadelphia Nationals, while Cincinnati although outhitting St. Louis 12 to 7, fielded poorly and dropped its seventh straight. Vic Aldredge tamed the fast going Pittsburgh Pirates and drove in the Cubs winning runs with a triple. The Boston Braves meanwhile gave Brooklyn another setback in a free hitting contest 8 to 2.

Cleveland and Washington broke their losing streaks, the Indians tying the White Sox in the ninth and getting to Red Faber for three hits and victory in the tenth while the Senators pounded four Boston boxmen for a 11 to 3 verdict.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANNED ON AN EXTENSIVE SCALE

HEREFORD, TEXAS, April 25.—The Hereford chamber of commerce is sponsoring the movement for the organization and perfection of plans for the Sulphur Park Country club being organized here. This wonderful club is to be located on the waters of the Frio and Terra Blanco creeks four miles east of the city of Hereford. One thousand two hundred acres of land have been secured as a site. Two miles of everlasting running water flow through the creeks. Excellent fishing is at hand. There are now a number of trees along the banks and there are more than 300 acres of sub-irrigated land where trees and shrubbery may be grown in abundance.

Members will be accepted from all parts of the plains country. More than 400 members will be included when all of the stock has been sold. Already 250 shares are in the hands of the purchasers. The organization of this splendid country club is says the West Texas chamber of commerce, but another evidence of the great cultural advancement of west Texas. Country clubs, golf clubs, playground movements and other kindred cultural projects have been or are now being projected in more than 25 west Texas towns and cities. Some really handsome and excellent buildings have been constructed for many of these different projects.

Phillies Have Two Bank Presidents On Club Roster

Most of the experts have figured the Philadelphia Nationals as certain to finish in last place.

Possibly the Phillies will fall to that lowly position and make the experts look good. Even if such is the case the Phillies have a claim to distinction.

On the club this year are two small town bank presidents. Fred Cy Williams and Arthur P. Fletcher. Fletcher has been out of the game for a year looking after his business interests. This season he was prevailed upon to return and help out the Phillies.

Cy Williams is a Notre Dame graduate and a mighty fine ball player. He is certain to be equally successful in business.

Williams is president of a bank at Three Lakes, Wis., and also is heavily interested in Florida real estate.

Playing ball this summer is more or less of a vacation for both.

IF THIS PLAY COMES UP

HERE'S YOUR DECISION

If the pitcher with one or more runners on the bases, in the act of delivering the ball to the batter or in throwing to first drops the ball either intentionally or accidentally it shall be regarded as a balk. All runners shall be entitled to advance one base. If with no one on the bases the pitcher accidentally drops the ball in delivering it to the batsman, no penalty shall be inflicted.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN BASKETBALL MADE AT RECENT MEETING

The foul rule in basketball has finally been changed.

All winter long the foul rule has been an issue in basketball.

A majority of the experts felt that the foul rule destroyed action and made the game largely a specialist affair, in which the foul shooter was featured.

At the recent meeting of the basketball rules committee the foul rule was debated for two days. Some of the leading basketball officials argued against any change. It seemed as if the rule would stand.

However the progressive element won out and the foul rule has been much altered.

A decided line has been drawn between the technical and personal foul.

When a technical foul is made the ball is awarded to the opponents at the point where the foul is committed with the right to put the ball in play with an unguarded pass. They shall not be permitted to dribble or shoot for goal.

The penalty for personal foul differs according to the point on the court where the foul is committed.

If the personal foul is committed within certain areas hereafter to be called the penalty areas at either end of the court the penalty will be greater than if the foul be committed outside that space.

The penalty area is a zone formed by the extension of the present free throw line to either side of the court.

For fouls committed within the zone the price paid will be two free throws. For a personal foul committed outside the zones the penalty will stand as at present, namely, a single free throw.
